1,600 Saved as Fire Sweeps Transport, Former 'Manhattan'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Tales of cool heroism and daring rescue were told today by survivors of the Navy transport Wakefield—once the $10,000,000 liner Manhattan—gulled last Thursday night by a fire which swept through that great vessel as though it had been "a barn full of hay."

Russians Yield 2 More Places Near Stalingrad

By HENRY C. CASSIDY.

MOSCOW, Thursday, Sept. 10.

(AP)—Massed German tanks and infantry smashing in a frontal assault toward the western gates of Stalingrad forced the Red army to give up two more populated places in the third Russian retreat in as many days, an official announcement said early today.

German troops also "broke into the northwestern outskirts" of Novorossiysk, Soviet Black sea naval base in the Caucasus which the Germans claimed capturing Sunday, despite "tremendous losses in men and material," the communiqué acknowledged.

While the fight for Stalingrad raged on, the Soviet bureau of information in a summary of the summer fighting said 73 enemy divisions, including 54 German, were routed by the Soviets between May 1 and August 31. On the Russian side a special announcement said, 42 Soviet rifle divisions and 25 brigades suffered considerable losses in the same period.

Courageous Red army men trying to make a "special" of Stalingrad were reported fighting against tanks with only rifles, but the tremendous German armored columns attacking frontally were creeping closer daily to the imperiled Volga river city. (The Berlin radio quoted a dispatch as saying that some German troops had reached the city itself.)

Tanks Destroyed. Southwest of Stalingrad the Russians said their troops were repulsing constant attacks and that at least 21 more Nazi tanks had been destroyed, and three German-Rumanian infantry companies annihilated.

The Russians, fighting against numerical and mechanical odds west of the city, had fought places before yielding the communiqué said. One rifle unit was said to have destroyed 10 German tanks, 14 guns and 300 enemy troops in this losing battle.

Nazi seizure of Stalingrad would imperil the whole Red army military structure, since it dominates the Volga river supply line to the Middle East and is the link between Russia's central and southern armies.

The Russian southern or Caucasian army already was in great difficulties both at Novorossiysk and at Muzdok on the road to the Grozny oil fields.

Fighting now inside the city of Novorossiysk itself, the Russians said their troops were temporarily

Drastic Restrictions Ordered Along Coast

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Moving to tighten military restrictions along the coast, Lieutenant General Hugh A. Drum today said he would exclude from 16 seaboard states "any person whose presence in the eastern military area, or any part or zone thereof, is deemed dangerous to the national defense."

In a proclamation issued from headquarters of the eastern defense command and first army at Governor's Island, General Drum designated 905 prohibited zones and 69 restricted zones and laid down drastic regulations governing them.

They were designed to protect forts, arsenals, airports, dams, factories and vital military and defense installations from northern Maine to the Florida keys. The proclamation designated 905 prohibited zones, 231 of which were described and defined. Location of the others will be known only by signs at entrances and exits along their boundaries.

Restrictions were set up on the right of any person to enter, remain in or leave the eastern military area. Special individual permits, issued by order of the commanding general of the appropriate service command, services of supply, will be necessary for movement occurred somewhere on the Atlantic while the transport was travelling in convoy to an east coast port, was given out by the Navy here. It said a preliminary checkup indicated that all the crew and passengers, totalling about 1,600, had been saved, although several were injured.

The passengers included civilians, and presumably sailors, while the vessel had a normal crew of 600 to 700 men. She was skippered by Commander Harold Gardner Bradbury, of Port Angeles, Washington. After escorting warships in the convoy had taken all the passengers and personnel off, and the intensity of the fire had decreased somewhat, Commander Bradbury led a fire fighting party back aboard the stricken vessel, and brought the flames under control.

Towed to Port. The blackened hulk was then towed to port. Officials have not yet determined the cause of the fire, which broke out on one deck level and spread to another.

At an east coast port, survivors gave vivid word pictures of the rescue scene—quick action to flood the explosives magazine and toss shells into the sea, Marines clambering aboard to prevent any panic, a destroyer coming alongside and spraying her superstructure against the towering hull of the former liner, while the destroyer captain said "To hell with the bridge—hold her in."

"It was shortly after 7 o'clock Thursday night," said Robert Crabtree, of Pawtucket, R. I., a passenger. "I was lying on the deck near the bow of the ship when I saw men looking over the rail. I didn't pay too much attention because I thought they were watching the destroyers or looking for submarines."

Wisp of Smoke. "Then I saw a thin wisp of smoke, and, like a lot of others, I thought somebody's mattress had caught fire from a cigarette."

Ranger Awarded Medal for Rescue

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The award of the Luxembourg government-in-exile, announced here that the German occupation authorities in his homeland have declared a state of civil emergency throughout the land—a territory of only 999 square miles and a population in 1935 of 296,913.

Courts martial have been set up in every city, he added. In London, the British ministry of information said this was "the first occasion in which a general strike has been ordered in German-occupied territory, and gains additional significance from the fact that Luxembourg ranks among the 10 largest steel producers in the world."

Prime Minister Dupong said the first occasion in which a general strike has been ordered in German-occupied territory, and gains additional significance from the fact that Luxembourg ranks among the 10 largest steel producers in the world.

German proclamation of August 30 adding Luxembourg to the Reich and requiring compulsory service for Luxembourgish in the German army "is the first time that she conscripts foreigners for military service, which incidentally shows her need of soldiers."

Dupong said the Luxembourgish reacted to those orders by starting a strike in the industrial Esch region.

"Thereupon Gauleiter Gustav Simon instituted courts martial for strikers with instructions to sentence them to death and have them immediately executed," he declared.

"The strike was then extended to the whole country and the Germans have now declared the state of civil emergency and courts martial have been set up in every city."

DAMAGED AT SEA—The naval transport Wakefield, formerly the liner Manhattan, was severely damaged by fire at sea September 3, the Navy announced last night.

More than 1,600 passengers and crew members were removed without loss of life. They were taken aboard warships accompanying the Wakefield in a convoy.

Tiniest United Nation Defies Nazis in Strike

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The first general strike in German-occupied territory was reported in full force tonight in tiny Luxembourg, smallest of the United Nations but one of the 10 largest steel producers in the world, in protest against incorporation of the Grand Duchy into the Reich and in defiance of death sentences for strikers.

Prime Minister Joseph Dupong, head of the Luxembourg government-in-exile, announced here that the German occupation authorities in his homeland have declared a state of civil emergency throughout the land—a territory of only 999 square miles and a population in 1935 of 296,913.

Courts martial have been set up in every city, he added. ### RAF, Soviet Bombers Roar Over Wide Area

LONDON, Thursday, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Russian bombers again attacked Budapest, Hungary's capital, during the night and there were indications that Germany and other Nazi-held continental territories were also under assault by the Red air force and British airplanes.

The Berlin radio announced that Budapest had been bombed. Other places in Hungary also were attacked but damage was described as slight.

Sudden radio shutdowns last night in Berlin, Paris, Budapest and old Czechoslovakia were the first clue of possible two-directional assaults.

The evidence of air-raids was most positive in Budapest, where the announcer in his last words before going off the air told of an alert.

Next heard from the Budapest transmitter were air raid precautions orders in code. The German-controlled Czech stations which closed down are at Prague and Bratislava.

The Deutschlandsender cut off in the midst of broadcasts for German home consumption at 7:30 p. m. and Budapest went silent soon thereafter except for code messages telling what to do in an air raid.

Bratislava and Prague went out about the same time as Budapest. Other continental stations also were reported off the air.

It is the second attack of the war on the Hungarian capital. Russian bombers raided Budapest last Friday night and left fires raging in the city.

Air Force Opens New Offensive In Solomons

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sept. 10.—(Thursday)—(AP)—Japanese troops have pushed through the Owen Stanley mountains and now are less than 44 miles from the big Allied base of Port Moresby, keystone of New Guinea defenses, an Allied communiqué said today.

The enemy "successfully" outflanked our positions at Myola, on the northern side of the mountains, reached Elogi on the southern side, only 44 miles from Port Moresby, and did still another outflanking movement, the Allied command announced.

"Fighting is now to the south along a narrow trail which leads across a mountainous divide," the omnibus communiqué said.

Allied airplanes bombed and strafed the enemy in co-operation with the ground forces which were fighting "tenaciously and gallantly under conditions of extraordinary hardship and difficulty," the war bulletin said.

The Allied defense forces were commanded by Lieutenant General S. F. Rowell, former deputy chief of the Australian general staff.

The drive to Elogi represented a 16-mile advance from Kokoda, where the Japanese began their drive several days ago.

Dispatches from the front said that the enemy already "has covered the toughest part" of the tortuous trail leading to Port Moresby.

The enemy is reported using special jungle fighters who participated in the overrunning of Malaya and Singapore, and the tactics are the same—a steady infiltration and outflanking of Allied defenders who are supplied over muddy mountainous paths from Port Moresby.

Port Moresby's seizure would deprive the Allies of its only well-developed base in New Guinea, and open the way to a Japanese invasion of Australia. Cape York

Talmadge Advantage Overcome by Foe in Midnight Tabulation

By FRANK DRAKE. Ellis Arnall had piled up a sound popular vote lead over Governor Talmadge in incomplete, unofficial election returns shortly before midnight last night, and was leading the Governor comfortably in the unofficial complete returns from 53 counties.

He amassed a popular vote of 112,587 to 88,142 for the incumbent, but Talmadge's votes indicated a total of 202 county unit votes, provided he won in all counties in which he led, while Arnall had the lead in counties with 190 unit votes. Several counties had not been heard from at that time.

Talmadge overcame an Arnall lead in early voting to hold the advantage for a while, but as the night wore on Arnall's popular vote, particularly in the towns and cities, topped the Governor's rural support.

58 Counties Complete. Arnall had 38 counties in complete unofficial returns, and Talmadge had only 18. The challenger took the first 11 complete counties out of 12, and continued until midnight to gather them in faster than the Governor.

In the completed counties count, Arnall had 38 unit votes and Talmadge trailed badly with only 40. Senator Richard B. Russell in all returns from all sections was apparently swamping his opponent, William D. Upshaw, former Fifth district congressman. Russell, who made only one campaign speech, was taking practically every precinct box, and his majority over Upshaw was overwhelming. Reports from other state races were slow in coming in and nothing definite has been heard from them.

Yates in Arnall Bag. In the hot Governor's race, Arnall had the following counties in his column with complete unofficial counts: Berrien, Arnall, 643; Talmadge 526; Butts, Arnall 496; Talmadge 421; Carroll, Arnall 1,891; Talmadge 1,645; Clarke, Arnall 2,267; Talmadge 699; Clay, Arnall 311; Talmadge 207; Columbia, Arnall 447; Talmadge 271; Cook, Arnall 726; Talmadge 483; Dougherty, Arnall 1,403; Talmadge 667; Douglas, Arnall 592; Talmadge 519; Early, Arnall 773; Talmadge 516.

Two-Tone Footwear Is Banned by WPB

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Some of those fancy shoes, including the two-tone jobs, became war casualties today.

To save leather, the War Production Board prohibited the manufacture of two-colored footwear, and reduced the variety of colors and styles to be made for next spring and summer. No restrictions were placed, however, on the total number of shoes to be produced.

Colors were limited to the following: Black, white, tan, army russet, town brown and blue.

Moreover, A. J. Spring, chief of WPB's shoe unit, requested shoe retailers "to discourage extra pair sales to consumers and to discourage promotion to influence consumers to buy unneeded pairs of shoes."

Describing sole leather now being used extensively by the armament forces as a limiting factor in shoe production, WPB said "excessive style and color variety" increased the amount of leather tied up in dealers' inventories and

Wells Trailing Ramspeck in Close Balloting

Robert Ramspeck, fifth district congressman and a Democrat, who last night led two opponents in his race for re-nomination, Fulton, DeKalb and Rockdale counties, comprising the district, gave Ramspeck 6,789 votes to 5,924 for Jere Wells, runner-up, and 1,098 for J. E. B. Stewart, third entrant.

Out of the 63 Fulton county boxes, 22 gave Ramspeck 3,842 votes, Wells 3,111, and Stewart 618.

The score in 21 of the 26 DeKalb county boxes gave Ramspeck 1,724, Wells 2,521, and Stewart 480.

Four out of the five Rockdale boxes gave Wells 292 votes to 223 for Ramspeck, and no report was filed on the Stewart count.

Arnall Takes Lead. Both Fulton and DeKalb counties were piling up majorities for Ellis Arnall, opposing Governor Eugene Talmadge for nomination for a fourth term.

Fifty-one of the Fulton boxes gave Arnall 24,304 votes to 8,262 for Talmadge, while 20 of the 26 DeKalb boxes gave Arnall 3,394 votes to 1,978 for Talmadge.

Commissioner Charles R. Adams, of Fulton, had 4,289 votes from 24 of the Fulton precincts reporting, to 3,743 for Ellis B. Barrett, a former mayor pro tem. of the Atlanta city council.

City Councilman J. Allen Couch was leading incumbent Fulton Commissioner Ed L. Almond on the face of 23 returns. Couch had 4,036 votes to 3,851 for Almond.

Clarence Duncan had a lead over Eugene Gunby for nomination for the third Fulton commission post. Duncan had 3,806 votes in 21 reporting boxes, while Gunby mustered 2,777.

22 Military Posts in Georgia Are Designated in Closed Area

Special Permit Necessary To Enter Barriers

Cameras, Binoculars, Telescopes Banned in Restricted Zones.

Twenty-two military posts in Georgia and virtually all of the eastern coastal region of the state have been designated either as prohibited or restricted areas by the Eastern Defense Command and the First Army in Public Proclamation No. 2, signed by Lieutenant General Hugh H. Drum, commanding general, it was announced last night by the War Department.

In the prohibited areas of the state no person may enter, remain in or leave except with special individual permit issued in accordance with the instructions of the commanding general of the Fourth Service Command.

In restricted areas any person entering or found within the area "shall, whenever called upon by any member of an enforcement agency, identify himself and otherwise explain his presence and activity therein."

In all cases, the proclamation states, the burden will be on the individual questioned to establish satisfactorily his identity and explain his presence and activity in the zone.

Cameras Banned. In restricted areas, as well as the prohibited military posts, no one except members of the armed forces or of enforcement agencies on official duty shall use cameras, binoculars or telescopes or anything that might be used as a signal device.

Traffic control may be instituted in the restricted areas. Parking or loitering may also be prohibited.

In addition to the coastal areas designated as restricted, the order also includes the water 100 yards from shore. No one will be allowed within this water area between sunrise and sunset, except members of the armed forces or law enforcement officers on official duty.

Penalties are provided for non-compliance with the provisions of the proclamation.

Designated are 905 prohibited areas and 69 restricted areas, but only 231 prohibited areas were made public. The remainder of these areas will be posted at the entrances and will in all respects come under the terms of the proclamation, just as those zones announced.

Georgia Areas. Extending from Maine through Florida, the zones include practically all of the coastal regions and military posts, stations and camps.

Prohibited areas in Georgia designated are as follows: In the Atlanta area, the Atlanta General Depot at Conley, Fort McPherson and the Fourth Service Command Air Corps Detachment at Municipal Airport.

In the Savannah area, the Savannah Air Base, Camp Stewart, Fort Screven and the Savannah Medical Depot.

In the Augusta area, the Augusta Arsenal, Camp Gordon, Daniel Field and Georgia Air Tech (Bush Field).

In the Macon area, Wellston Air Depot, Camp Wheeler, Air Corps Basic Flying Field (Cochran Field).

In the Columbus area, Fort Benning.

In the Chattanooga area, Fort Oglethorpe.

In the Albany area, Air Corps Advanced Flying School (Turner Field), and Barr Aero Technical Institute.

In the Americus area, Graham Aviation Company (Southern Field).

In the Douglas area, Air Corps Training Detachment (Raymond Brinkerhoff Aviation Company).

In the Valdosta area, Moody Field.

In the Moultrie area, Air Corps Advanced Flying School (Spence Field).

The restricted area roughly includes everything to the seaward of the inland waterway with the specific exception of the incorporated limits of Sea Island Beach and St. Simons Island and 100 yards which connect them with Brunswick. The northern boundary falls below Turner Creek, Tybee River, Lazaretto Creek and Tybee Creek and excludes Savannah Beach.

Dutch Navy Head to Visit South After Conference

Admiral J. T. Furstner, commander-in-chief of the Royal Netherlands Navy, is in conference with Navy officials in Washington, will visit the south when he leaves the nation's capital, the regional Office of War Information announced yesterday.

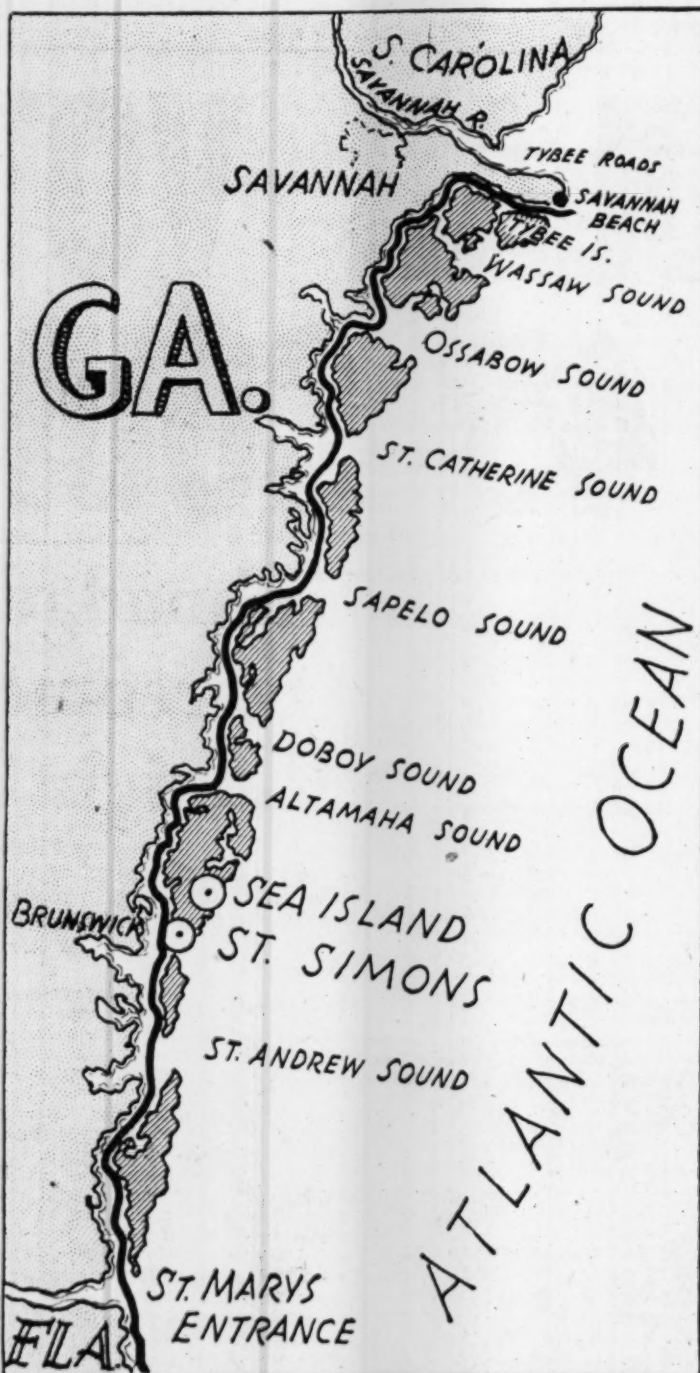

The exiled government of Queen Wilhelmina has purchased training planes from the United States and has established a flying school in Jackson, Miss., the OWI said.

Admiral Furstner will inspect the Netherlands flying cadets at Jackson and then will tour the Dutch West Indies. He is expected to stop in Atlanta while on tour.

RESTRICTED AREAS—Virtually all of Georgia's coast was made a restricted zone under a proclamation made public yesterday by the War Department. The lined areas on the map are restricted. The area is bounded on the north by a series of salt water creeks and rivers just south of the Savannah river, on the west by the inland waterway, indicated by the heavy black line, and extends southward to the Florida border. The peninsula upon which is situated Savannah Beach is not restricted, but portions of Tybee Island and Wilmington Island are included. Specifically excluded are the corporate limits of Sea Island Beach and St. Simons Island and the highways connecting them with Brunswick.

during the period between sunset and sunrise beyond which the public generally could not go in approaching the sea.

Certain exceptions were provided in order not to interfere with normal highway, railroad and waterway traffic and with certain personnel, such as law enforcement officers or employees of public utilities in performance of duty.

General Drum ordered that copies of the proclamation be displayed at every selective service local board, post office, courthouse and town hall in the eastern military area, and pointed out:

"It shall be the duty of every person found within the eastern military area to familiarize himself with the terms of every proclamation, announcement or restriction issued by this headquarters."

Persons found in prohibited or restricted zones bear the responsibility of being able, at all times, to identify themselves to military or civil authorities under penalty of arrest. Enemy aliens in the area will be subject to immediate apprehension and internment, the order declared.

Others Included. Also included in prohibited zones were military camps, landing fields, power plants, naval yards and vessels, piers, docks, munitions storage yards or warehouses, canals, communication facilities, mines and other places the protection of which is deemed necessary to the national defense.

The eastern defense command covers Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and the District of Columbia.

South Carolina Zones. The prohibited zones in South Carolina include:

South Carolina—Charleston ordnance depot, Fort Jackson, Camp Croft, Port of embarkation at Charleston, Fort Moultrie, Fort Sumter, Air Corps training detachment, U. S. Navy Yards (Charleston), Southern Airways Sales Company (Air Corps Training Detachment center), Air Corps Training Detachment center (Hawthorne School of Aeronautics), and Air Corps Basic Flying School (Shaw Field).

Restricted zones include: South Carolina—The No. 1 area consists of all islands, keys, beaches, coastal strips, banks and reefs, on the eastern coast of South Carolina bounded as follows: On the north by Little river inlet, on the east by the Atlantic Ocean and the sounds, coves, gulfs, bays, inlets, and indentations thereof; on the south by Dewees inlet and the Isle of

Lackadaisical Boilermakers Bar Fair Sex

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Sept. 9.—(P)—Officials of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders (AFL) discovered late today that lack of interest among union members had defeated a proposal to let women welders join them.

William E. Walter, secretary and treasurer of the union, said that only 20 per cent of those qualified to vote in a nation-wide referendum on the question had voted. Under the union's constitution, he explained, 50 per cent of those qualified must vote before a referendum has any standing.

Earlier Walter and J. A. Franklin, president of the union, said that their count showed that 400 out of the 600 lodges of the union had voted to admit the women to membership.

One class will begin at 8 o'clock tonight at the Exposition Cotton Mill auditorium and the other will begin at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the J. M. Goldsmith school. The classes will last one hour and will be held for the duration, giving special attention to the handling of fire bombs.

School To Train Women Flying Instructors Set

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 9.—(P)—The Tennessee bureau of aeronautics announced today that the nation's first school to train women as aviation instructors will begin here September 15.

All flying training will be given by instructors at Gillespie airport and the 12-week course will include 62 hours of flying, 216 hours of ground school instruction and 162 hours of flight instructor ground school training.

Instruction and housing will be free but students must commit themselves to accept employment as instructors anywhere they are needed on completion of the course, the bureau said.

Study of Forced Savings Plans Is Approved

Senate Group Adds Five Per Cent Victory Levy To Revenue Bill.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(P)—A congressional survey of compulsory savings plans to meet a substantial share of war costs was approved today by the senate finance committee after it formally added to the new revenue bill a 5 per cent "victory" levy on all earnings above $824 yearly.

Taking cognizance of a recent statement by Secretary Morgenthau that the treasury could not rely beyond the end of this year on voluntary financing, the committee wrote into the measure a provision setting up an 11-member committee to study compulsory savings and report to congress by January 11.

Forced Loans. Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, who sponsored this amendment, told reporters a majority of the committee apparently believed the present program of voluntary bond purchases was "wholly inadequate" to provide the future billions needed to supply the nation's war machine.

If the house later approves the amendment, Democrat George, said a committee consisting of five finance committee members, five members of the house ways and means committee and Secretary Morgenthau would start to work to devise methods of obtaining forced loans from taxpayers.

Taft remarked in this connection that further study might be given to a plan proposed by Senator Danaher, Republican, Connecticut, to levy 10 per cent against retail sales and make collections through the issuance of stamps which could be converted into bonds cashable after the war.

Excess Profits Tax. He mentioned also the possibility of adopting a modified version of a proposal by Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, to place an excess profits tax of 50 per cent on the increased portion of wartime earnings of individuals over their average income for a basic and representative period in past years.

George told reporters there was insufficient time for the finance group to write a compulsory savings plan into the pending tax bill. He said some post-war rebates thus far provided for both individuals and corporations "were more in the form of tax relief than actual compulsory savings."

Post-War Rebate. The victory tax plan adopted by the committee today after rejection of three substitute schedules submitted by the treasury would contain a form of post-war rebate.

Previously the committee voted to permit corporations to take 10 per cent credit on the amount of their surtaxes and excess profits levies in the form of debt deductions or post-war rebates.

The victory tax, starting January 1, 1943, would levy 5 per cent against all earnings of individuals above $824 a year, or $12 a week, to raise a yearly total estimated by George at $3,650,000,000 and by treasury experts at $3,100,000,000.

43,420 Pupils Attend Opening Day of School

City Figures Show Drop of 1,507 From Last Year.

Atlanta parents sent 43,420 children back to school the opening day Tuesday, according to figures compiled yesterday by city school administrators. The figure is only 1,507 short of the 44,927 who attended the last day of school for the 1941-42 term last June 5.

Of the 43,420 present on the opening day of the 1942-43 term, 14,209 were Negroes, the remainder being white students. A comparison of white students attending the opening day and the last day of 1941-42 school term according to school classifications follows:

High schools, 4,801 for the opening day compared with 5,045 for the last day of the last term; junior high schools, 6,885 for the opening day as against 6,872; special schools, 379 for the opening and 474 for the last day; elementary schools, 17,146 for the opening day and 17,390 for the last day.

Marvin Coleman, assistant superintendent in charge of census and attendance, said hundreds of additional students probably will register during the year, and that since a polio epidemic cut first-day enrollments last year, the department had based its comparisons on the opening day of the present term with the last day of school year instead of on the opening day of the 1941-42 term.

RAF Whirlwinds Sink 2 Trawlers

LONDON, Sept. 9.—(P)—RAF Whirlwinds, Britain's newest fighter-bombers, sank two armed trawlers off Cap de la Hague, near Cherbourg, today when they made their first foray.

Escorted by Spitfires, the Whirlwinds swooped to attack four trawlers attempting to sneak from De La Hague to the island of Alderney.

Bursts of cannon fire set two of the ships afire and bombs finished them. The Whirlwinds have been modified to carry two bombs. The Whirlwind was built as a single-seated, twin-engine fighter with a speed of more than 400 miles an hour. Its long range for a fighter and heavy armament—four cannons in the nose—made it suitable for the switch.

Police Capture Man Believed Miami Slayer

Jacksonville Officers Say Suspect Fits Hunted Gunman to 'T.'

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 9.—(P)—Detective Inspector E. L. Acosta of the Jacksonville Police Department today notified Miami police that a man arrested here on a hold-up charge "fits to a T" the description of a gunman who killed four Miamians July 17.

Inspector Acosta said that the man gave his name as Vincent Christy, 36, of California. His physical appearance, dress and weapons matched those of the mysterious slayer, the officer said, and Miami authorities were hurrying here with witnesses to view Christy.

Christy was arrested this morning shortly after Ernie Stauss reported he had been held up in his home on the Southside.

Stauss said that Christy, holding a gun on him, demanded $25, but accepted $6 on Stauss' promise to drive him into town to get the rest, police reported. After driving a few blocks, however, Christy put Stauss out and kept on going, officers said.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Leopold and her son by a former marriage, Stephen, 6, were shot to death in their apartment in Miami on the night of July 17. Witnesses said they saw the killer stop an automobile driven by 19-year-old Ralph J. Morin Jr., and force Morin to take him off. Morin's bullet-riddled body was found about a mile away the next day.

The unknown driver drove off, unwittingly taking the watch westward with him. Mrs. Pavantios asked assistance in locating the timepiece.

House Accepts Senate Changes in Soldier-Vote Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Disregarding southern Democrats' pleas for preservation of states' rights, the house overwhelmingly accepted today senate changes in legislation to give service men the right to vote by mail in primary and general elections without paying poll taxes.

The 247 to 53 vote by which it adopted a conference committee's recommendations found 49 southern members voting against the measure which they termed an invasion of the right of states to control their own elections.

Senate Committee.
The conference committee of senate and house members was appointed after the two branches fell out over senate amendments. It recommended complete acceptance of the 26 senate changes in the original house bill, only three of which were of a major nature.

Before the legislation goes to President Roosevelt, the senate must formally rectify the conference report, but since the report made no changes in the senate version, senate approval was taken for granted.

The three major changes made by the senate provided for absentee voting for service men in primary as well as general elections, gave the mail ballot to men stationed abroad as well as at home, and exempted service men from paying poll taxes required by Georgia, Mississippi, Arkansas, Texas, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia.

Informal Recess.
The house broke a six-weeks informal recess to dispose of the legislation. Efforts of opponents to block consideration on the ground no quorum was present failed when more than 300 members showed up.

Before the final vote, Representative Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, leader of the opposition, sought to recommit the bill, but lost on a 244 to 56 count.

Rankin assailed the measure as "just the beginning" of a movement to "abolish the state governments," said the War Department opposed it because it might force the disclosure of troop locations abroad, and told his colleagues they were "planting dynamite under the structure your forefathers built."

Supporting the principle of the bill on the theory that "if a man is good enough to fight for his country he is good enough to exercise his right of franchise without paying tribute," Representative Pfeiffer, Republican, New York, asserted the legislation would interfere with soldier-vote machinery already in operation in New York. But he voted for it.

Sees No Objection.
Representative Young, Democrat, Ohio, denied that the War Department would be forced to disclose military information, asserting that ballots furnished by the states would be handled by the postmasters at New York and San Francisco for service men abroad.

Young said he could see no objection to extending the mail vote to primaries, since most of them already have been held and everyone was hopeful the war would be over by 1944, when the next federal primaries will be held. The legislation is operative only in time of war.

The Ohioan assailed poll taxes as "non-American and un-democratic."

Representative Marcantonio, American Labor, New York, described the poll tax as a "subterfuge" to keep certain people from voting.

Joining the southerners, Representative Rich, Republican, Pennsylvania, defended a nominal poll tax as not unjust and said he did not believe congress "should interfere with the states."

"You can induce a man to fight," commented Representative Dirksen, Republican, Illinois, but should not "deny him through the poll tax the right to choose those who will represent him."

Nelson, Kaiser Discuss Planes
WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—WPB Chief Donald M. Nelson talked with Henry H. Kaiser, west coast shipbuilder who proposes to build giant cargo planes, for one hour and a half today and told reporters afterwards that "we are going to pursue this thing just as rapidly as possible to its logical conclusion."

Nelson said Kaiser had furnished him with estimates on the material which would be required to build cargo planes either with buramold (plywood and plastic) or with aluminum.

Nelson has expressed favor for the Kaiser proposal provided it can be carried out without materially affecting the program for combat plane construction.

Coroner's Jury To Probe Mystery Death

A coroner's jury this morning will investigate the death of Samuel Jerome Simmons, 55, of the Orange tourist camp on Marietta road, a former engineer for the Southern Railroad, who was pronounced dead on arrival at Grady hospital early yesterday morning after a fight with a city policeman. Police reports said the man had been hit on the head twice with a blackjack when he attacked Radio Patrolman J. D. Adams, but Grady hospital doctors were unable to say offhand what had caused the death.

According to a report to Chief Hornsby, Patrolman Adams reported he and his partner, F. H. Weaver, found Simmons lying in the doorway of a liquor store at Marietta and Earl streets shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday morning.

He was in a stupor and semi-conscious, they said, and they tried to awaken him, but finally had to carry him to the patrol car. On the way to town, Adams reported, the prisoner pulled him into the rear seat and began to kick him. Adams said he was forced to hit

Simmons twice with his blackjack in self-defense.

The prisoner began to fight again when he was being transferred to the patrol wagon but later quieted down, the report stated.

He was taken to Grady hospital. Chief Hornsby has assigned two detectives to make an investigation and report to the inquest.

Simmons is survived by his wife, one stepdaughter, Miss Edna Doyal; two stepsons, Horace and Arlen Doyal; three brothers, O. B. and Dock Simmons, of Atlanta, and Jim Simmons, of Patmas, Ark.; and a sister-in-law, Mrs. N. G. Simmons, of Hapeville. Funeral arrangements will be announced by J. Allen Couch.

Two Mississippi colleges will have the first Army administrative schools for enlisted men on their campuses September 26, when several hundred soldiers matriculate for courses in clerical work and advanced administrative procedure. Headquarters, Fourth Service Command, announced here yesterday.

The advanced administrative school, known officially as Enlisted Branch No. 1, Army administrative schools, will be at the University of Mississippi, at Oxford. The basic clerical school, or Enlisted Branch No. 2, will be at Mississippi Southern College, at Hattiesburg.

NO FIRES IN AREA FOR 16 MONTHS

No fires in the cantonment area in more than 16 months—that's the remarkable record of the anti-aircraft training center, at Camp Stewart, Ga.

Post Fire Chief W. J. Duke announced yesterday that, except for occasional brush fires on the huge anti-aircraft range, his 38-man staff has not answered a call since April, 1941.

Local fire trucks occasionally come to the aid of nearby communities. Last November a detail from Camp Stewart was largely instrumental in subduing a tank-car fire at Pembroke, Ga., 20 miles from post headquarters.

OSCAR HARRIS JR.

AT TRAINING CENTER. Oscar L. Harris Jr., of East Point, Ga., recently arrived at the Finance Replacement Training Center at Fort Benning.

Benjamin Harrison, Ind., to begin his basic training in finance. Upon completion of an intensive field training program, he will be sent into the classroom to study Army pay methods.

He is the husband of Mrs. Frances Elizabeth Lane, East Point, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar L. Harris, 566 Langhorn street, S. W. Prior to his induction at Fort McPherson, Ga., August 27, he was a money clerk for Railway Express Agency, in Atlanta.

THREE GEORGIANS PROMOTED IN NAVY

Three Georgia residents are among a total of 52 sailors of the United States Navy who received advancements in rating during August, according to the list of promotions announced by Lieutenant G. E. Barton, U. S. N. R., personnel officer at the United States Naval Station at Key West, Florida.

They are: Charles Laramore Hammond, of Albany, who was promoted from hospital apprentice second class to hospital apprentice first class. James William Lester, of Atlanta, advanced from seaman second class to seaman first class.

Georgia Lafayette Sistrunk, of Grovetown, promoted from hospital apprentice second class to hospital apprentice first class. James William Lester, of Atlanta, advanced from seaman second class to seaman first class.

REASON ENOUGH TO BECOME OFFICER. Corporal Joseph A. Rybikowski had reason enough to be an anti-aircraft officer candidate.

The corporal, a native of Baltimore, Md., was examined by the Anti-aircraft Officer Candidate Board at Camp Stewart, Ga., last night.

"Why do you want to be an officer?" a board member asked him.

"Because my mother would be proud of me she'd almost burst!" was the prompt and fervent reply.

And Corporal Rybikowski passed the board—after further examination, of course.

His mother, by the way, is a native of Latvia, in the Baltic regions; and his father, deceased, was a native of Russia. His mother, Mrs. Eufrozina Rybikowski, lives at 502 South Paca street, Baltimore, Md.

MORTON L. PHILLIPS ABOARD NAVY VESSEL. Morton L. Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Phillips, of 510 East Point street, East Point, Ga., is stationed aboard a United States Navy vessel somewhere at sea.

While there, he played football and participated in other athletic activities. He is a member of Colonial Hills Baptist church.

First Lieutenant John J. Flynt Jr., of the 10th Armored Division, at Fort Benning, Ga., has been promoted to the rank of captain. He is aide-de-camp to Brigadier General Robert W. After successfully completing an intensive 12-week course of instruction, they will be commissioned as second lieutenants in the Army Air Forces.

Paul Revere Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Wells, of Stone Mountain, Ga., has been made a corporal and is stationed at LeMoore, Cal.

Body of Major Infantry Unit Killed in Jump Is Inspected Sent to Canada At Ft. Benning

Canadian Paratroop Leader Victim of Following Plane. Frank Neely Member of Party That Made Tour of Fort.

FORT BENNING, Ga., Sept. 9. (P)—The body of Major Hilton D. Proctor, Canadian paratroop leader, killed by a following plane in a jump here Monday, was flown to Ottawa today with an escort representing both the Canadian and United States Armies.

Major Proctor's death was announced by Brigadier General George P. Howell, commandant of the Army Parachute School, who explained disclosure of the accident had been withheld pending clearance by Canadian authorities.

Major Proctor, who led a contingent of 20 enlisted Canadians and six other officers sent here for parachute training, was killed in his first jump. Aides of General Howell said it was probable that port plane fouled his chute a moment after he stepped into space at the head of his group. The others continued their jumps and landed successfully. Army investigators said it was probable that Major Proctor was instantly killed by contact with the following plane.

The Canadian paratroop class, which came here three weeks ago, made subsequent jumps and were to graduate Saturday as scheduled. They go thence to Canada to assist in instruction of other paratroops.

Major Proctor is survived by his wife and one daughter, residing at Ottawa.

Treasury Plans Record Financing

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. (P)—In the largest single financing operation since the first World War, the Treasury today offered $3,000,000,000 worth of new securities for sale to investors.

The offering included $1,500,000,000 of 6.5 per cent Treasury certificates of indebtedness, maturing in about seven months, and $1,500,000,000 of 1-1/4 per cent Treasury notes maturing in approximately two and a half years.

Together with proceeds of September 15 income tax collections and day-to-day war bond sales, this financing apparently will take care of the Treasury's principal money needs for several weeks.

When these operations are completed they will boost the federal debt to $90,000,000,000, which will be exactly double the statutory limit that existed before the beginning of the defense program. The legal limit now is $125,000,000,000.

Infuriated Natives Of Jap-Held Isles Open 'Second Front'

By MICHAEL CHINIGO.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(INS)—A wave of "righteous" revolt, fast approaching "second-front" proportions, was disclosed by Dutch and Philippine spokesmen tonight to be sweeping across Japanese-occupied territories in the southwest Pacific.

GIFT TO JAPS—This fighting Marine, Thomas W. Gowan, delivered a punch for Atlanta in the recent U. S. Marine invasion of the Solomon Islands. A letter received by his father, J. P. Gowan, of Atlanta, is the first direct word to reach here from the fighting in the Solomons.

Atlantan Keeps Date To Deliver 'Lick' at Japs

Thomas Gowan Writes of Fighting With Mar- ines in Solomons.

Atlanta's contribution to the Solomon Islands' invasion was delivered C. O. D. to Japs who paid and paid by Thomas W. Gowan, former soldier who joined the Marines four years ago because he wanted to belong to a really tough fighting outfit.

The news that Gowan participated in the recent Marine invasion of the Jap-held island group came yesterday in the form of a letter to his father, J. P. Gowan, of 357 Oakland avenue, S. E., and was the first direct word received from an Atlantan on the progress of the fighting.

The father was not surprised that his Leatherneck son had participated in the attack. Several weeks ago he wrote his father, "I have a date with some yellow-bellied Japs, and I'll see you when the job is finished."

When news of the invasion came, Gowan immediately surmised that this was the "date" his son had been talking about.

The terse epistle, which reached New York City, August 23, reads:

"Dear Dad and All,

"As I have not much time, I will let you know that we arrived in Tulagi and Guadalcanal, and believe me, we have the place in hand now. I am safe and sound and will see you sometime soon.

"We had very few casualties. I guess you know they are part of the Solomon group.

"Love always,
"Your son,
"T. W. G."

Gowan, 27, enlisted in the Army at the age of 17, and served six years as a member of that branch of the armed services. After joining the Marines, he was stationed aboard the cruiser, U. S. S. St. Louis.

City Will Seek To Cut Expenses

Plans to curtail city expenses will be discussed at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at a called meeting with Mayor Hartsfield of the 23 heads of the various city departments.

Mayor Hartsfield, while declining to discuss details of the meeting, said the war will affect every department of the city government, and that departmental heads must be prepared to co-operate with each other and to co-ordinate their efforts to provide the maximum service possible.

An anticipated reduction in city revenues will probably be one of the main subjects discussed at the meeting, city hall officials said yesterday.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little PASTETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get PASTETH at any drug store. (adv.)

Load of Thirsty Draftees Creates Only 'Stir' in Bleckley County

Ballots were exploding like firecrackers in the polling places of the state yesterday as Georgia was choosing a Governor, senator, and other important officials, but rest assured—all was quiet and lovely in Cochran, Bleckley county.

Only one little bit of excitement occurred all during the day, a correspondent wired The Constitution in an early report on the election.

"Impossible to tell trend of county," the telegram read. "No trouble here and only excitement was when bus load of draftees passing through tried to patronize closed local liquor stores."

In addition to the husband, survivors include a son, John L. Lewis Jr., a medical student, and a daughter, Kathryn, who is secretary-treasurer of District 50 of the United Mine Workers.

Senator Clark Seeks Laws To 'Curb' Petrillo

Preliminary Hearing To Be Held Monday, So- lon Reveals.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Legislation giving the government broad authority to prohibit union orders against musicians making records and electrical transcriptions for radio stations and coin-operated reproducing machines was advocated today by Senator Clark, Democrat, Idaho.

Clark told reporters a preliminary hearing had been set tentatively for Monday by a Senate Interstate Commerce Subcommittee, of which he is chairman, to lay the groundwork for asking senate authority to "explore the whole field of Petrillo's operations, as well as the effect of the bans on public morale."

Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, had broadened his ban on "canned music" by revoking union permits to make electrical transcriptions which are used once and then destroyed.

Clark told reporters a preliminary hearing had been set tentatively for Monday by a Senate Interstate Commerce Subcommittee, of which he is chairman, to lay the groundwork for asking senate authority to "explore the whole field of Petrillo's operations, as well as the effect of the bans on public morale."

List Includes School, Court, State Officials

Germans Draw Nearer to Edge Of Stalingrad

holding by savage counterattacks and steady Red army artillery barrages. Two battalions of enemy infantry were dispersed and partly annihilated in the last 12 hours but the Germans still were gaining.

The Soviet Black sea fleet is believed to have fled to Batum, near the Turkish coast, long ago, but some units apparently still were aiding the struggle ashore. Soviet airmen also were strafing the swaying battle lines outside Novorossisk, where hundreds of dead Germans and Rumanians had fallen.

Only at Mzodok did the Russians report successes, and these were still indecisive. The Russians for two days now have been trying to annihilate a Nazi force which crossed the Terek river to the south bank on the road to Grozny, some 60 miles away.

The communique said that "under the blows of our troops the Hitlerites were forced to retreat," and that one unit had destroyed three tanks, seven guns and killed 200 Germans.

But the big momentous struggle still was near the Volga river. "German planes are literally hanging over our front line, bombing our positions" on the southwest face of Stalingrad, a dispatch to the government newspaper Izvestia said. Yet here, four successive assaults by enemy tanks and motorized infantry, representing German, Italian and Rumanian reserve, failed to make headway.

In the Novorossisk sector of the Black sea front the Germans were using all the means at their disposal, including sea landings, to gain a decisive success, and they were massing large forces in the Terek river valley of the mid-Caucasus for a push deeper into the mountains.

German Claims.

(The German high command reported Panzer troops had penetrated into a stubbornly fortified position in the fortified area of Stalingrad, capturing "dominating heights" west of the city in bitter fighting. It is said that more than 1,000 prisoners, 27 guns, an armored train and other material were taken in the storming of a prominence southeast of Novorossisk.)

The defense of Stalingrad itself, which began officially on August 25 when the Russian communique first recorded fighting northwest of the city, has assumed the epic proportions of the battles of Leningrad and Moscow.

But the issue still was in doubt as the Germans kept up their powerful land and air assaults.

The Army organ, Red Star, described the latest retirement to new positions under pressure of great numbers of tanks and planes in a small sector on the west of the city. It said that the position was "particularly complicated" at some points, but that the Red lines, though sagging, were being held "up to the last possibility."

Russian gunners were dealing out especially heavy losses around the mine fields, and the midday communique described the destruction of three tanks blown up by the mines themselves.

Red infantrymen were bearing the brunt of the struggle, however, showing the firmness of hardened veterans despite enemy superiority in tanks and planes.

One small Russian detachment was reported to have held a sector southwest of the city during a day.

RAF, Russian Bombers Roar Over Wide Area

nightly attacks under improving conditions an RAF spokesman predicted that American Flying Fortresses, after their "excellent start" would carry out the daylight, high-level precision assignments on an increasing scale.

The RAF commentator, who may not be named, forecast "deeper penetration to more vital targets" by the big American bombers and added that "neither the German press nor radio has been allowed to tell the people that American aircraft are attacking them in the west now." He predicted that German bombers would rejoin the aerial battle in the west at their earliest opportunity, meaning, apparently, as soon as they may be spared from other fronts.

Giving point to this, London had a daytime air raid alert, but it ended with the passage of enemy planes flying high over the Thames estuary. There was no incident reported.

Thirty-Fifth of War.

The RAF raid on Frankfurt, the 35th of the war, apparently was of the "standard three-figure order," meaning something over 200 planes went to the attack on the Rhineland, of which seven bombers failed to return.

Large fires were set in Frankfurt and the near-by Rhineland, some 400 miles from the nearest British bases, a fact which testifies that with longer nights the bombers can strike deeper into enemy territory.

The almost nightly schedule of bombings in September compared with 12 bombings of Germany proper for all of August when weather conditions were generally unfavorable and the nights were seasonably shorter, curtailing bomber mileage.

On the Rhineland raids, the German radio carried a DNB dispatch declaring "material damage was caused in residential districts of some towns" in western Germany.

Two of several German planes raiding England were shot down last night. Some dropped propaganda leaflets which British authorities suppressed.

Radio stations at Berlin, Paris and Budapest abruptly went off the air soon after dark tonight, indicating the possibility of air raids by British or Russian bombers or both.

Allies Raid Tobruk, Firing Dock Area

CAIRO, Sept. 9.—(P)—Ground activity in the western desert remained at a standstill today, but Allied air forces smashed again at Axis supply lines with heavy raids last night on the Salum-Matruh road and on the port of Tobruk, which already had been pounded with 3,000 tons of bombs since June 23.

Both medium and heavy bombers were included in a "big force" which attacked Tobruk, leaving huge fires raging in the dock area and near fuel installations, it was learned tonight.

The attack on the Salum-Matruh road was announced in today's communique, which said a number of trucks, gasoline carriers and staff cars was destroyed. Allied planes shot down three German planes in an air fight over enemy territory and destroyed two other enemy planes in other actions.

CHURCHILL SPEECH.

MOSCOW, Sept. 9.—(P)—The Soviet press published accounts of Prime Minister Churchill's war review before the British house of commons prominently today, without editorial comment. Pravda, Izvestia and Red Star displayed the story at the top of their foreign news pages under two-column headlines.

Women Drivers for Streetcars, Buses Foreseen by ODT Chiefs

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Some day before this war is over you may go to your customary bus stop and board a "blown-up" sedan operated by a girl driver.

Or a woman may be at the controls of the streetcar which takes you to your office.

Such contingencies were envisioned today by officials of the Office of Defense Transportation in speeches before the American Transit Association as experts considered means of carrying increasing loads on trolleys and buses while new equipment is hard to get and many employees are entering the armed forces.

Otto S. Beyer, director of ODT's division of transport personnel, suggested gaps in the ranks of workers should be filled by training unskilled hands for job requiring skill, by substituting women for men and by hiring more Negroes.

"I see no reason why women cannot be employed as streetcar motormen and conductors and I suspect there are women who are quite capable of driving a heavy bus," he said. "A few women are already being used as streetcar and motor bus operators in San Diego and San Francisco and are being considered for such jobs in other cities."

Guy A. Richardson, head of ODT's local transport department, reported unorthodox vehicles had been developed with an eye to saving critical materials used in manufacturing rolling stock of the conventional type. Among them are: A "blown-up" sedan—a standard automobile lengthened by six feet and otherwise made over to carry 15 to 18 passengers.

A "mass-carrying trailer" which uses truck tires of relatively small size.

Various kinds of trailers and semi-trailers, including some which can be towed by autos.

Robert C. Stormont, transportation expert for eight southern California aircraft firms, stated that, if special bus service and share-your-car arrangements prove inadequate, it may become necessary to shift workers to other plants closer to their homes, or to build houses and barracks close to the factories.

'Mustang' Fighter Little More Than Blur in Flight

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9.—(AP)—A camouflaged streak of lightning flashed down from the east, whipped across the Los Angeles airport at 40 feet or less, then zoomed up into the haze to the west today.

New York City Taxi Service Cut Drastically

Similar Restrictions May Be Imposed Elsewhere, ODT Warns.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The Office of Defense Transportation today ordered drastic curtailment of New York city taxi service, including a cut of one-third in the number of cabs operated by fleets, and serve notice that similar restrictions eventually might be imposed in other cities.

Individual taxi owners, who operate less than three cabs, were barred from driving any of their cabs more than six days a week, or increasing the number of shifts each vehicle has been operating.

Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman, declaring that the 11,700 taxicabs in New York city represented 22 percent of all the licensed cabs in the country, estimated the order would reduce gasoline consumption there by more than 10,000,000 gallons a year, eliminate need for 15,000 new tires and 15,000 recapped tires, and save about 107,000,000 taxi miles a year.

ODT emphasized that the regulations were in addition to taxicab controls imposed September 1 throughout the country. Under the nation-wide order, which the New York operators must continue to observe, cabs may not be operated for any social or recreational purposes on the part of the driver or operator, may not be driven at a speed exceeding 40 miles an hour, cannot be used in making commercial deliveries, and cannot cruise for passengers.

Further, the national restrictions prohibit a taxi from operating more than 25 miles from the point where a passenger is picked up to the point where he is discharged.

Officials estimated that, in proportion to population, New York city has more taxicabs than any other city in the United States with the exception of Washington. New York has one cab in operation for every 640 persons.

They included 175 from Martin county, Kentucky, who were quartered at Williamson, and about 250 West Virginians who were transported to the Newfame and Elba camps.

They joined metropolitan New York workers and Army selectees in relieving the farm labor shortage, critical in seven western New York counties.

It was a North American fighter plane, the type our Army Air Forces prosaically call the P-51 and the RAF more romantically has labeled the Mustang.

"You may say," said the AAF representative at this first public showing of the terrors of Dieppe, "that it is very fast. You may, in fact, tell anything that you can see while the plane is in flight."

That is a severe limitation, because the Mustang in flight is little more than a blur. You can say it has an engine—Allison, 1,150 horsepower, liquid cooled — because you can hear it roar. You can say it has wings—square-cut, not unlike the Nazis' Messerschmitt 109—because you can see it fly.

You can say it has armament—because it was the first United States fighter plane to bring down a German Focke-Wulf 190 over Dieppe, one of the many bitter dogfights that accompanied the Commando raid of August 19. It also has been chosen by the RAF for army co-operational work in reconnaissance and ground strafing.

You can say it has defensive armor—because the AAF sees to it that our pilots have the maximum protection possible.

You can say it is fast—in what the Army calls the "400-mile-per-hour class." You can say it is being produced in quantity—because that is what it was designed for.

When you have said that, you have virtually all that security considerations will permit.

Aerobatic Show.

Four Mustangs took part in today's show, with three of their big-brother B-25's—similar to Doolittle's Tokyo raiders and fresh off the production line this morning—as background accompaniment.

On the ground as spectators were press and photographers, Army and plant officials, and several thousand workers who got a bigger belt than anyone out of seeing their handiwork in action.

Mustang aerobatics were executed with commendable smoothness by Bob Chilton, of Boise, Idaho, one of North American's engineering test pilots. The other three planes, which made a tight V run over the field at well under 300 feet, were flown by Captains B. R. Eckstein, of Los Angeles; C. R. Douglass, of Winchester, Va., and L. W. Harris, of San Diego, of the AAF.

Carrots Bring $1,000 a Crate At Relief Sale

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Carrots, currently selling at $4.50 a crate, brought $1,000 a crate today at a Chambers street auction—for the benefit of American soldiers captured at Bataan and Corregidor.

The carrots were donated by growers of the Bluewater Valley region of New Mexico, a state which had 2,300 boys on Bataan. The growers and shippers also contributed $3,000 to the sale.

Led off by Major William O'Dwyer, former Brooklyn district attorney, several hundred dealers rapidly bid up the prices.

The carload of 346 crates, which would have brought $1,557 by market prices, was bought for

BACK TO SCHOOL—These city voters poured into Clark Howell school on Tenth street yesterday to claim their ballots and cast their votes. Voters lined up here are being checked against the book in which their name is recorded by street address.

J. P. COURTHOUSE—Voters passed through this little justice of the peace courthouse all day long out in Center Hill as they voted in the primary election which was highlighted by the bitter fight of Ellis Arnall, attorney general, to oust Governor Talmadge. This scene is rather typical of the smaller polling places in Fulton and other counties on election day in Georgia. Ordinarily quiet, it was a hubbub of activity yesterday. Georgia voters take politics "serious."

New System of Balloting Wins Unanimous Approval of Citizens

Voting in a school building and the new system of being identified to receive a ballot yesterday met with almost unanimous approval of the citizens who cast their vote at Clark Howell elementary school on Tenth street.

Election workers, headed by Miss Rose Moran, manager of the polls, expressed belief voters found the system of applying for their ballots with their original precinct cards to their liking.

"Takes a Little Longer."

"It takes a little longer, but I believe it is going to work out beautifully," said Miss Kitty Lovett. "The fact that their ballots are not numbered and are, therefore, completely secret, seems to please people and when the public is educated up to the new system, the polls workers will find it is more easily operated."

Among the voters who braved mid-afternoon showers to cast their votes and express their approval of the new system were:

Mrs. M. E. Courtney, of 1020 Columbia, avenue, N. E.; "I like coming to school to vote. It's better than the old system of going in crowded stores or old empty store buildings."

H. A. Courtney, of 1020 Columbia, avenue, N. E.; "It certainly is a better system. I like it a lot better."

"System Efficient."

Mrs. Mae Fisher, of 106 Fourteenth street; "I like the system fine. The League of Women Voters has been trying to get it in use for years, and I'm sure it's going to be popular. Nobody handles your ballot but you."

Miss Nancy Fletcher, of 1170 Peachtree street; "This is a very desirable place for voting. Of course, I like it better."

Miss Evelyn Galloway, of 30 Fourteenth street; "The new system seems to be very efficient. There's no chance of anyone knowing how you have voted. I think it far surpasses anything we have ever had."

Miss Lovett, one of the polls workers, said officials of the school seemed to like having the election held there, instead of objecting to the noise and the confusion of voters coming and going all day. She said teachers took advantage of the presence of the polling place in the basement to demonstrate to the pupils how elections are held and invited the polls workers to eat their lunches in the cafeteria.

Missing Ballot Box and Binder Found in Home

Police Believe 'Drunk' Carried Away Records of Precinct 4-B.

A drunken person yesterday was believed responsible for obtaining and leaving the ballot binder and box of Precinct 4-B in the hallway of a home at 23 Memorial drive yesterday. Tax Collector T. Earl Suttles said yesterday.

The box and records were reported to the police by Mrs. Geraldine Reilly, of the Memorial drive address, according to Detectives P. B. Jones and P. H. Beasley. They could have been used nowhere but in Precinct 4-B, and Suttles said his staff during Tuesday night had prepared substitute records.

The fact the records were missing came to light when G. T. Fulton, of 685 Elbert street, S. W., manager of Precinct B, called at the courthouse for them. He found they had already been issued. A checkup revealed the person who had obtained them had signed the receipt with two illegible scrawls.

Arnall Carries Warm Springs By 137 to 61

Special To THE CONSTITUTION.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Sept. 9. Ellis Arnall carried Warm Springs district over Governor Talmadge by a vote of more than two to one, Arnall getting 137 to 61 for Talmadge.

Warm Springs is the Georgia home of President Roosevelt, and Arnall championed the administration of President Roosevelt, and he charged Talmadge was antagonistic to the President.

The vote in five precincts in Meriwether county showed Arnall was leading by a vote of 348 to 211 for Talmadge.

Schley, Arnall 201, Talmadge 254; Turner, Arnall 501, Talmadge 746; and Webster, Arnall 173, Talmadge 301.

Other counties carried by Talmadge were: Pike, Arnall 557, Talmadge 589; and Irwin, Arnall 597, Talmadge 609.

In the other counties, returns were incomplete, but the two gubernatorial aspirants were close in many of them.

Parker vs. Dykes.

Besides the gubernatorial and senatorial races, balloting throughout the state was heavy in the four other state-wide campaigns, but no tabulations had come in early last night on these races.

Homer C. Parker, incumbent, and E. B. Dykes, of Vienna, were fighting for the position of comptroller general; T. Grady Head, of Ringgold, and Randall Evans, of Thomson, were battling for the attorney generalship abandoned by Ellis Arnall; Mary Goudelock, former Confederate Soldiers' Home superintendent, was seeking to unseat Vivian L. Stanley on the prison commission, and Justice Samuel C. Atkinson, of the supreme court, was opposed by J. M. Bartow Bloodworth, of Atlanta.

Heated contests, especially in the fifth (Atlanta) district, featured the races in five of Georgia's 10 congressional districts.

Robert Ramspeck, congressman from the fifth, was opposed by Jere A. Wells, former Fulton county school superintendent, and J. E. B. Stewart, former labor department official.

In the congressional races, Hugh Peterson, of Allegheny, the incumbent, and Clarence Pedersen and Albert L. Cobb, of Savannah, were fighting it out; J. H. Smithwick, of Moultrie, was battling the incumbent, E. E. Cox, for re-election in the second district; Emory Bass, of Valdosta; Braswell Dean, of Alma, and T. V. Williams, of Douglas, all were fighting Congressman John Gibson, of Douglas, in the eighth district, and in the ninth district, B. Frank Whelan, of Gainesville, was opposed by Phil Landrum, of Nelson, a school teacher.

Automatic Nominees.

In addition to the hot contests, Georgians nominated the following state officers, who had no opposition:

Secretary of State John B. Wilson; State Treasurer George B. Hamilton; Ben T. Huie, labor commissioner; Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent; James A. Perry and Perry T. Knight, public service commissioners; Associate Justice W. Frank Jenkins, of the state supreme court, and Judges Jule W. Felton and Nash R. Broyles, of the state court of appeals.

The five congressmen who were renominated without opposition were: Stephen Pace, of Americus, third district; Sidney Camp, of Newnan, fourth district; Carl Vinson, of Milledgeville, sixth district; Malcolm C. Tarver, of Dalton, seventh district, and Paul Brown, of Elberton, 10th district.

Thirty-five state senators had no opposition, and 103 members of the house of representatives go back automatically. There were contests in 102 representative positions, and for 17 state senatorial posts. Reports on these local races over the state were slow coming in, because greater interest in the state-wide races caused them to be counted first.

U. S. Eagle Squadrons Down 73 Enemy Craft

LONDON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Three American Eagle squadrons of the British Royal Air Force, veterans of the western front air war in which compatriots of the United States Army Air Forces have joined, are officially credited with the destruction of 73 enemy aircraft.

The air ministry announced the toll of the hard-hitting and offensive-minded Eagle groups today. Nearly all their confirmed victories were scored during operations over the English channel and northern France.

Chief of Staff Named To General Eisenhower

'Not Bound to Austria,' Eden Tells Commons

LONDON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the house of commons today that Britain would not consider herself bound by any change effected in Austria in or since 1938 in post-war settlements.

He said, however, that the government was unable to give any commitments "at this stage to recognize or support the establishment in the future of any particular frontiers in central Europe."

Finn Paper Says Reds Increasing in Sweden

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Sept. 9.—(AP)—The Finnish newspaper Urn Sangat was quoted today by a Helsinki dispatch as saying "the increase of Communist voices in Swedish elections is noticed with alarm in Sweden."

(The Berlin radio did not comment on the article, but the fact that it quoted it was seen as a followup on yesterday's charges by the German foreign office that Sweden is "the Communist center of Europe.")

(Reference books do not list any newspaper by the name of Urn Sangat in Finland. The paper may be the Turun Sanomat, published at Turku.)

Wells Trailing Ramspeck in Close Balloting

Incumbent Judge T. O. Hathcock, of the civil court of Fulton county, by a vote of 3,119 for Parker to 2,912 for Hathcock out of 19 reporting boxes.

Unopposed.

Judge Clarence Bell, another civil court judge, had no opposition.

W. Cicerio Kendrick and Helen Douglas Mankin, incumbent representatives in the Georgia legislature from Fulton county, led their opponents, while Paul S. Etheridge Jr., third member of the Fulton delegation, won his re-nomination without opposition.

Kendrick had 1,948 votes from 16 precincts, and his opponent, Vester M. Ounby, had 911.

Mrs. Mankin had 2,506 votes from 17 reporting boxes and her opponent, McWhorter Milner, had 1,454.

John Allen Dunnaway, incumbent DeKalb county representative, was trailing his opponent, W. L. Broome, by a vote of 2,662 for Broome to 2,576 for Dunnaway in returns from 19 of DeKalb's boxes.

Incumbent Senator Richard B. Russell was leading his opponent, former Congressman William D. Upshaw, in both Fulton and DeKalb counties.

Russell had 10,829 votes in 29 Fulton boxes to 1,722 for Upshaw, and 20 DeKalb boxes gave Russell 5,320 votes to 1,019 for Upshaw.

Homer C. Parker led his opponent, E. B. Dykes, in both counties, with Parker having 6,074 votes in 23 Fulton boxes to 4,474 for Dykes, and Parker got 4,144 votes in 20 DeKalb boxes while Dykes received 1,864.

Head Holds Lead.

T. Grady Head was leading in his race for attorney general. In Fulton he had 3,853 votes from 20 boxes while his opponent, Randall Evans Jr., speaker of the Georgia house of representatives, got 2,820. In DeKalb, Head had 3,563 votes to 2,632 for Evans with 20 boxes counted.

Vivian L. Stanley, of the State Prison and Parole Commission, led his opponent, Mary D. Goudelock, in both counties. Stanley had 4,230 votes in DeKalb to 1,904 for Mrs. Goudelock, while Fulton's 16 reporting boxes gave Stanley 2,593 votes to 1,188 for Mrs. Goudelock.

Justice Samuel C. Atkinson, of the supreme court, was out in front over his opposition, J. M. Bartow Bloodworth, in both counties. Fulton's 16 reporting boxes gave Atkinson 2,544 votes to 1,188 for Bloodworth, and DeKalb placed 3,405 in the Atkinson column from 19 reporting boxes to 1,794 for Bloodworth.

John Gibson Takes Lead in Congress Race

Partial returns in four of the five congressional races in which incumbents had opposition in yesterday's Democratic primary gave leads to two of the state's present representatives, while two others trailed.

In the four-way race in the Eighth district Congressman John Gibson, of Douglas, was ahead. On the basis of returns from 20 scattered precincts in several counties, Gibson had 1,013, while Emory Bass, of Valdosta, was running second at 640. Former Congressman Braswell Deen had 325, and T. V. Williams, of Douglas, 100.

In the Second district, 16 of the 17 precincts in Colquitt county, only county reporting in the district, put Congressman E. E. Cox slightly behind former Congressman J. H. Smithwick, of Moultrie, with 604 votes to Smithwick's 673. Colquitt is Smithwick's home county.

In the Ninth district, where election is by the unit vote system, Phil Landrum took the two votes of Pickens county over Congressman Frank Whelchel, 393 to 178, on the basis of returns from nine of the county's 14 precincts.

One complete county in the First district, also determined by unit votes, went to incumbent Hugh Peterson, and he was leading in another, while Albert L. Cobb, of Savannah, was ahead in the only other county reporting.

The third candidate, Clarence C. Pedersen, of Savannah, was far behind. Jenkins' two unit votes went to Peterson on complete returns, 482 to Cobb's 270. Peterson was ahead in the first precinct to report in Montgomery county, 87 to Cobb's one, and Cobb led in two of six precincts in Liberty, 52 to Peterson's 50.

LISBON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Neither the scenes nor the commentary of the German propaganda film, "How we dealt with the British at Dieppe," impressed a single movie critic in this Portuguese capital, one of whom called it "a poor show which cannot convince even those who know little about movies."

Many residents of Lisbon had been invited by the Nazi legation to the premiere showing last night.

Most times when you need a Taxi, you know it at least 15 minutes before you pick up the phone and call WALNUT 0200. Even in most emergency Taxi trips you can give us a little time.

And if you can do that, you can help us save rubber, gasoline and wear and tear on irreplaceable Taxis.

For if you give the Dispatching Switchboard a little notice, they can watch for an incoming report from the Outpost Telephone nearest you—and tell that driver to go around and pick you up.

Thus, instead of "deadheading" a cab all the way out from the garage, we can use one nearby—and make one round trip serve two fares.

The other way two cabs go out. One returns empty, the other goes out empty. And that, obviously, is wasteful.

None of us can afford to waste Taxi mileage now. Taxi service is too vital in this hard-to-get-around City. And if we waste it now, we'll wish later that we had not—both of us.

So try to give us fifteen minutes, at least.

Hopes Rise and Fall Among Talmadge Followers Here

By KEELER MacCARTNEY.

Hopes rose and fell among the Talmadge leaders in the Henry Grady hotel last night like a small ship being tossed about by a heavy sea.

Sen. Ellender Renominated In Louisiana

Tuesday's Primaries in Other States in Final Count.

As results of Tuesday primaries in several states were made known last night it appeared certain that Governor Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota, nationally prominent Republican, was re-nominated. He has said if he were re-elected he would quit next spring to enter the Navy, leaving the job to the Lieutenant Governor. The man he backed for this nomination, Ed Thye, farmer, was way ahead in a field of eight.

Senator Joseph H. Ball, supporter of the administration's foreign policy, was far ahead in a field of three seeking the Republican senatorial nomination, while Ed Murphy for senator, and John D. Sullivan for Governor, were opposed on the Democratic side.

In Washington state, Representatives Knute Hill and John M. Coffey, Democrats, whose votes against some Roosevelt foreign policies prior to Pearl Harbor were cited by opponents, were re-nominated. Former Senator Clarence C. Dill, Democrat, was nominated to fill a house vacancy.

Vermont Election. Representative Charles A. Plumley was renominated by Vermont Republicans and will be opposed in November for the state's only house seat by John B. Candon, Democrat.

Louisiana Democrats renominated Senator Allen J. Ellender, political ally of the late Huey P. Long, assuring his return to the senate.

Arizona Democrats renominated Representative John R. Murdock, while Richard F. Harless, a county attorney, appeared to have captured the nomination for that state's new house seat.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson, of Colorado, was renominated, defeating Justice Benjamin Hilliard, of the state supreme court, in the Democratic primary. Governor Ralph L. Carr won the Republican senatorial nomination without contest, while Senator Eugene D. Millikin, Republican, and James March, Democrat, will face each other in November for a short-term senate seat.

Apart from the primary voting, Delaware Republicans unanimously nominated a slate headed by former Governor C. Douglas Buck for United States senator at the state convention in Dover.

Laney Leads. In one of the closest elections in South Carolina history, Senator George Kershaw Laney held a thin lead over Eugene J. Williams for lieutenant governor, with only 120 precincts unreported in their runoff Democratic primary Tuesday.

With 1,415 of the state's 1,535 precincts reporting, the unofficial vote was Laney 71,561, Williams 71,273.

Laney, a gaunt, dark-haired politician, has served 38 of his 70 years as a legislator from Chesterfield county. Laney is an advocate of prohibition.

Williams, who is 50 years old, is a former mayor of Mullins and formerly served in the house of representatives.

Laney and Williams ran a close race in the first primary August 25 for the lieutenant governorship which has been vacant since J. E. Harley left it last November to succeed B. H. Maybank as Governor when Maybank became U. S. senator.

In the other state race runoff, E. C. Rhodes appeared a certain victor over D. A. Smith for comptroller general. The vote from 1,412 precincts: Rhodes 83,532, Smith 57,460.

Nomination is equivalent to election.

Maryland Race Close. A nip-and-tuck contest for the Democratic congressional nomination in the first Maryland district was still undecided last night, 24 hours after the end of balloting, and one other incumbent representative had been defeated on the basis of unofficial returns.

Governor Herbert R. O'Connor won Democratic renomination by an approximate eight-to-one majority over his nearest rival in a four-man contest on the basis of virtually complete unofficial returns.

His opponent in the November election will be Theodore R. McKeldin, Baltimore attorney. Maryland has had only one Republican governor in more than half a century.

With 15 polling places out of 199 still out, Representative David J. Ward, Democrat, Maryland, was Nobody seemed to be in a good humor when the first few votes gave a temporary lead to Ellis Arnall for Governor.

Cheers broke out, however, as the rural precincts gave Talmadge a comfortable lead. The Governor, sitting up on the 14th floor of the hotel, surrounded by Charles C. Redwine, his campaign manager; James Peters, of Manchester; Johnny Goodwin, head of the State Patrol, and others of his flock, didn't care to see newspapermen at first.

Incomplete Votes. When incomplete popular votes gave him a grasp of 194 unit votes to 104 for Arnall, Talmadge's attitude changed. A Constitution reporter and photographer were admitted to his room.

The Governor was courteous, but even then his manner was not cocksure. "This all right?" he asked, moving around for the photographer. And he had no objection to a second pose.

"I promised my countrymen I'd bring you to this," he chided. "And here you are."

"No, I won't make any sort of a statement until the last returns are in. I want to wait until everything is complete."

Supporters Cheer. Talmadge supporters cheered wildly when the first paper hit the streets with the headline that the Governor was leading in rural precincts. Some of them took the election for granted right there, boasting "our landslide will be greater this year than in 1940."

But the seasoned campaigners were not so easily convinced. "Wait and see how the city precincts go," they advised. "This thing is not over yet."

Shouting continued even after the announcement that the first six counties reporting complete saw Arnall take four and leave two for Talmadge.

"We'd be all right if Talmadge could hold the popular vote lead he has," one supporter explained. "But out of the first 21 counties, the city vote swung the rural vote and 12 counties went to Arnall."

"We'd be all right if it wasn't for that damned city vote."

Trailing State Senator Dudley G. Roe by 49 votes in the unofficial tabulation, but he was consistently leading in Cecil county, the only one not completely tabulated.

There was a possibility the result might hinge on tabulation of absentee votes cast by soldiers, which will not be counted for 10 days.

Representative John A. Meyer, of the fourth district, whose foes cited his vote against extension of the selective service act, had lost the Democratic nomination to Joseph M. Wyatt, Baltimore attorney, on the basis of complete unofficial returns.

Representative Thomas D'Alessandro and Representative Lansdale S. Sasser had overwhelming margins for the Democratic nominations in the third and fifth districts, respectively.

Senator Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana, and four incumbent members of congress were renominated by Louisiana Democrats Tuesday, while runoff primaries will be necessary to determine three or possibly four other congressional races.

Representatives Hebert, Dornieux, Brooks and Allen won renomination, the latter two without opposition. Representative Boggs trailed former Representative Paul H. Maloney in the second district of New Orleans, but the vote was so close, 24,817 for Maloney and 24,018 for Boggs, with 600 votes for a third candidate, that a runoff is possible.

Maloney claimed nomination, but the official vote will be needed to determine the result.

Representatives Mills in the fifth and Sanders in the sixth go into runoffs against Charles McKenzie of Monroe and James H. on the northern tip of Australia is only 325 miles from Port Moresby, which is equipped with an airbase whence Allied bombers have been striking at enemy bases in upper and eastern New Guinea.

American Fliers Open Offensive

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—American air forces, turning once more to the offensive in the Solomon Islands, bombed and strafed Japanese shore installations on Gizo island, 215 miles northwest of the U. S. base on Guadalcanal, the Navy announced tonight.

The operation was carried out last Sunday without any resistance from the enemy and apparently marked the start of a whole new phase of offensive activity in the conquest of the Solomons. Ever since the Solomon invasion started August 7, it has been expected that consolidation of American positions in the southeastern section of the islands would be followed by attacks on Jap positions to the northwest.

Assault on Gizo. The Navy communiqué disclosing the aerial assault on Gizo said that the process of mopping up enemy units in Guadalcanal was continuing. Marines were reported seeking out and attacking Japanese detachments which fled to the jungles when the initial American landing was made and which may have been reinforced since by small numbers of troops sent in EARLY RETURNS—It was a scene of jubilation at Talmadge headquarters early last night, when the rural precinct results began to filter in, putting their candidate ahead.

Stopping Japs Gives Marines In Solomons Big Morale Lift

By TOM YARBROUGH.

GUADALCANAL, Solomon Islands, Sept. 2.—(Delayed)—(AP)—The U. S. Marines are in good heart.

Although the Battle of the Solomon Islands is by no means over—not even the Battle of Guadalcanal—these men on the front line are being carried along through terrible tasks by a morale lift that comes from having been the first Americans to stop the Japanese and push them back.

Last night we had a raid without bombs. Today we had a raid with bombs and as our little group crouched in a foxhole hacked out of coral rock we felt the whole hillside quiver and shake.

Support in Air. A hot little chunk of metal thoroughly spent fell into our hole but even then everybody still felt pretty sure of the situation because our fighters were in the air—fighters capable of meeting enemy bombers and Zero fighters at just about where they chose—in sharp contrast with days past in New Guinea when Allied fighters were practically handicapped.

In the Solomon Islands air support is the whole thing and the Japanese high command lost no time in aiming bombs at the excellent Guadalcanal airbase which the Japanese had worked night and day to finish an advanced base for operations farther southward. Now the United Nations have that base for operations farther northward.

Jap Prisoners. A few minutes after coming ashore in landing boat like the Marines used I saw an intensely fascinating spectacle—hundreds of Japanese prisoners marching humbly down a road that wound through a grove of coconut palms.

Most of them were laborers brought here to build an airbase and carry out the pick and shovel part of other projects in the fortification of the island.

Many of them were grinning and some saluted almost every American they passed. They didn't look unhappy.

Major General Alexander A. Vandergrift, living in the stocks in the midst of his men somewhere in the Solomons, welcomed us when we eventually reached his headquarters and said, "Well, if you can find anything to write about around here go ahead."

Losses Not 'Terrific.' After two weeks of persuasion, haggling, explaining and maddening waiting, I arrived at Guadalcanal from Australia by air and sea.

The official radio is so crowded with correspondents have to use the air mail as far as Honolulu, but even by that slow means it is a relief to Morrison of Hammond. In the seventh district, where Representative Placette retired, Joseph L. McHugh and Henry D. Larcade will enter a runoff.

by the Japanese from time to time "under cover of darkness."

Another disclosure of the communiqué was that on September 5 a Navy patrol plane shot down a large Japanese four-engine flying boat northeast of the Solomons. No details of this engagement were given, but the loss of the flying boat brought to at least 123 the number of planes which the Japs have had destroyed in Solomons fighting to date.

Most interest in Naval circles here devolved upon the Gizo action, however, and what it may portend for the future.

The little island, which is about four miles wide by six long, and heavily wooded, lies more than halfway on the route to Kieta, a Japanese-held point on Bougainville island. Northwest of Kieta is the Japs' main Solomons base of Buna.

Defense Operations. Up to the time of the attack on Gizo, so far as has been reported, the American force at Guadalcanal has been occupied entirely with defensive operations against Japanese bombing attacks. While these operations were in progress, the work of securing American positions in the Guadalcanal-Tulagi area was going forward and presumably the development of a bomber base on Guadalcanal airfield was undertaken.

anese and lost about 100. Eyewitnesses of that battle said the surf ran pink with blood when a Japanese landing force was completely wiped out.

This place is full of heroes. In time their stories will be told.

Today was the biggest day since that fateful August 8, when the first Marine landing was made. The first mail arrived from the United States. It was written before the folks at home knew those letters would reach addresses in the Solomons.

It is dark now and I had better quit using this flashlight. Somebody down this way has a guitar and it sounds like they could use at least one more bass in that "In the Evening by the Moonlight."

FDR Abolishes Double-Time Pay for Sunday

Holidays, Weekends Are Treated Alike; One Day of Rest in Seven.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt signed an executive order today eliminating payment of double-time rates for work on Saturday, Sunday, or holidays, as such.

The order permits double time for a seventh consecutive day of work, but not for any particular day of the week as such. The days of the week lost their identity for wage-determining purposes.

The action, the White House said, is in line with pledges given the President several months ago by AFL President William Green and CIO President Philip Murray.

"Many unions," said the announcement, "have already modified their contracts to put this pledge into effect, and in order to make the practice universal the order has been issued."

Payment Over 40 Hours. The White House announcement said the double time for the seventh day of work was to encourage, in the interest of efficiency, one day of rest in seven. The order permits payment for work over 40 hours a week at the rate of time and a half, as provided in the wage-hour act.

The announcement did not say what emergency powers specifically the President drew upon for the order, which enters the much-discussed field of wage control.

The President in his message to congress on Monday said he would stabilize wages in general when congress authorized him to stabilize farm prices. If congress had not acted by October 1, the Pres-

Kids Want Talmadge: 'So We Won't Have To Go to School'

Although electioneering at or near the polls was prohibited at yesterday's primary, the law failed to curb a group of youngsters in Buckhead.

They sat on the lawn of the fire station, where the voting was going on, and mumbled sotto voce to passersby headed for the polls:

"Vote for Talmadge so we won't have to go to school this year."

ident said he would feel bound to stabilize both himself.

Text of Statement. The White House statement said:

"The President today signed an executive order doing away with penalty double-time payments for Sunday work in line with the pledges given him by Mr. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Mr. Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations. Many unions have already modified their contracts to put this pledge into effect and in order to make the practice universal the order has been issued."

Two new photoplays and four hold-overs will be offered at Atlanta theaters, beginning today and tomorrow.

The Fox's offering is the "Gay Sisters," starring Barbara Stanwyck and George Brent. The other new film is "All That Money Can Buy," starring Walter Huston and Edward Arnold, which plays at the Roxy theater. Both open tomorrow. Along with the Roxy film will be shown "The World at War," a powerful documentary film which traces the war from beginning to the present day.

The holdovers are "Panama Hattie" at Loew's; "Talk of the Town" at the Rialto; "Somewhere I'll Find You" at the Rhodes, and "Holiday Inn," which moves tomorrow to the Capitol.

Fox

A great novel, played on the screen by a great cast in Warner Brothers' "The Gay Sisters," which opens at the Fox theater tomorrow.

In the leading role is fiery Barbara Stanwyck as the eldest of the Gaylord sisters. Her two sisters are played by Nancy Coleman and Geraldine Fitzgerald. George Brent, in his usual casual, yet sometimes forceful manner, plays the part of a millionaire who holds the once wealthy sisters penniless.

Romance, intrigue and brilliant dialogue are combined by Director Irving Rapper in this picture which has won preview critics' praise.

Roxy

A new type of picture is "All That Money Can Buy," adapted for the screen from Stephen Vincent Benet's great novel, "The Devil and Daniel Webster," which opens tomorrow at the Roxy theater.

Walter Huston plays the role of the Devil and Edward Arnold is seen as Daniel Webster.

The story revolves around their fight over the soul of a man (James Craig). Craig, according to the story, sells his soul to the devil, but following a great trial, Webster succeeds in breaking the pact and freeing the man.

Ann Shirley and Simone Simon play important supporting roles.

Loew's Grand

"Panama Hattie," starring Red Skelton, Ann Sothern, Ben Blue and Rags Ragland, met with such great response at the Loew's Grand theater that Manager Eddie Pentecost has decided to hold this picture for a second week.

Set in the Canal Zone, "Panama Hattie" tells of how three screwy sailors, Red, Rags and Ben have a mania for tracking down spies. Their spy hunt carries them into a haunted house where they meet with much excitement.

Miss Sothern plays the role of a night club singer who is in love with a sergeant.

Rialto

"The Talk of the Town" is still the talk of the town. Cary Grant, Jean Arthur and Ronald Colman are teamed in this comedy which begins its second week at the Rialto theater today.

Grant is seen as an escaped anarchist who seeks refuge in a home owned by Miss Arthur and rented to Mr. Colman. When Colman, a dry, bearded law professor, learns of Grant's presence in his home, things begin to happen, and happen fast. It's a Columbia picture.

Rhodes

Clark Gable and Lana Turner are breaking all house records at the Rhodes theater where they are currently beginning their fourth week in "Somewhere I'll Find You."

Both Gable and Lana are newspaper reporters who are on foreign assignments. Gable's brother, also a news reporter, supplies the third corner in a triangle love affair. The story is set for the most part in the Orient.

War Forcing Big Change On College Women

Many Post-School Weddings Now Must Be Postponed.

SOUTH HADLEY, Mass., Sept. 9.—(NANA)—In today's crisis, the young college woman will not admit that her life and future plans have been totally disorganized. She has another term for it—"radically changed."

That, at least, is the opinion of many of the Mount Holyoke College students who are on the campus this summer accelerating their college programs for an early graduation. And they agree, a little grimly, on one advantage which the war has brought—it has shaken away the non-essentials and left the things that count.

Two or three years ago, the engaged students were making plans for an apartment or a little house, and bridal showers were concentrating on guest towels and mixing bowls. But today "home" and "husband" are no longer synonymous, and the "home" may be postponed for a long time. There may be a big wedding with orange blossoms and white satin, but the trimmings are not very important. Nor does the array of wedding presents, nice as they would be, loom large. Nine chances out of 10 they will have to be packed away in the family attic for the duration.

Civil Service Jobs.

And for the girls who are not engaged and who will work after college, things have changed, too. The idea of a "smart" job, situated comfortably near home, with pleasant hours, and lots of chance for "self-expression," has gone by the board. The college girl is taking civil service exams as never before. She is ready to exchange living at home for a crowded rooming house in Washington if necessary, and she is ready to postpone the job she had dreamed of until after the war is over.

It was Jean Hockette, Mount Holyoke '43, who evolved the definition of college girls' plans being radically changed rather than disorganized. Jean should know how college girls feel, for she was junior head of a freshman house last year, and this summer has been student head of the summer session at Mount Holyoke.

"We simply have to go and make plans," she said, "or we won't get anywhere. But we are making plans with a lot of 'ifs,' and we have plenty of alternative ideas."

"Mrs." in College.

The way her own plans have been changed is a good case in point. An engagement ring sparkled on her left hand. Ordinarily she would have worked a year after she graduated, and would have been married when her fiancé completed his first year of law school. But now there will be wedding bells this September, and Jean will return as a "Mrs."

The good salaries and the great variety of jobs now open to the graduates do have a cheering effect. With better salaries offered, the young graduates will be able to work away from home, going where they are most needed.

Fancy-free, engaged, or married, the young college woman is planning on having to take care of herself for a while—perhaps quite a while. There are plenty of difficulties in the way but college women, and not from any lack of realism, are not half so bewildered or discouraged as their elders might think they should be. They are a flexible, hard-headed, patriotic, and resilient lot who can see their future plans turned upside down, and come up smiling, with more plans for the future.

Post-War Insurance.

For the girls who are going to be married, the jobs are as much a post-war insurance as a present necessity. Indeed, as some of them pointed out, some of the young officers are getting more money than they would if they were starting in business in normal times, so the additional income is not strictly necessary.

Pleasantine Wilson, '43, of Scarsdale, N. Y., has her job all lined up already—statistical work for which she is well prepared by her major in economics. Her fiancé is in the Air Corps and they will be married after she is graduated in January and he has his commission. "He never would have wanted me to work after we were married," she said. But the war has erased his objections, and "Pleasantine" feels that the job gives her one more reality to hold on to in a changing world.

But whether they planned to get married and then work, or wait until after the war for their marriages, Jean Hockette and "Pleasantine" Wilson have an advantage which many of their classmates envy them. They have taken their major studies in two fields which are much in demand now, chemistry and economics.

Many of the present seniors had dreamed of working on publications, in writing, in art. Now they survey the job situation, and wonder. They envy the freshmen and sophomores who will have time to choose their college course in relation to the country's needs, but, on the other hand, "I'm awfully glad that I am a senior—I've had my college education, whatever happens," said Nancy Warner, '43, of Fort Devan, Mass. Nancy had hoped to get work on a magazine, but she is not optimistic about it now. If the "right" job doesn't come along immediately, she will do war work.

Another problem which college women are thinking about is the long-range aspect of some of the exciting new jobs now being opened to women. Will women still be welcome in those jobs when the war is over? They would like nothing better than to be assured that their worries were silly, but there it is. They are going into many industrial jobs because they are needed and because, although they don't talk much about patriotism, they honestly want to do their part in winning the war. But they are going to put as much money as they can into war saving bonds and be prepared to jump in another direction later.

The good salaries and the great to complete her college course, graduating in January.

Jean is a chemistry major. She had wanted to get a chemical job for that year before she married, but now her working plans are of a longer range, and she plans to make a master's degree in chemistry after she graduates. This will enable her to get a more responsible position, for she is well aware that she may be working for a long time. And, she added frankly, if her husband is one of those who don't return, she would want to have enough training and experience to buck the post-war situation on her own, without asking help from her family or her in-laws.

Army Releases

Official of UAW

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—A spokesman for Wendell Lund, labor production director of the War Production Board, said today that, at Lund's request, Roy Reuther, former United Automobile Workers' Union official, had been released from the Army to resume a job under Lund as a field representative.

Reuther, national UAW representative at Pontiac, Mich., before joining WPB's staff, was drafted several months ago, said the spokesman, who declined to be quoted by name.

Subsequently, the spokesman said, Lund requested that Reuther be discharged from the Army because of the importance of his work in morale and labor union contacts. The request was approved by the adjutant general's office and Reuther returned to his WPB duties about a week ago.

950,000 Tons Of Rubber Seen Yearly in 1943

Figures Cover Butadiene Only, WPB Report Reveals.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 9.—(AP)—America's answer to Japan on rubber was given today by the War Production Board, which disclosed figures indicating more than 950,000 short tons of synthetic rubber will be produced yearly by or before November 1 next year.

The production figures, covering butadiene rubber only, were in a report to the American Chemical Society submitted by Dr. Albert L. Elder, of the WPB, who said that the "Japs have completely underestimated our technical ability."

The short tons (2,000 pounds) would be about 750,000 long tons (2,240 pounds). Most estimates of America's rubber needs have customarily been in long tons, although the designation as to the kind of tons often was omitted.

How much additional synthetic rubber from the other American synthetic sources will come in the next year was not discussed to date. Previously the expanded rate for neoprene, an excellent tire synthetic, has been given as 40,000 tons a year; butyl rubber as 132,000 tons, and thiokol has variously been estimated at over 100,000 tons. Presumably these estimates were for long tons.

Fire Sweeps Transport

and that they probably would throw the mattress overboard. While I was looking, probably only a matter of two or three minutes, the smoke and flames seemed to race from one end of the transport to the other and completely enveloped the ship.

"We were headed into the wind, and the skipper quickly hove the transport around, so that the wind blew the smoke and flames away from us instead of from stem to stern.

"There were long blasts from the ship's whistle. Distress flags were run up. Immediately a destroyer and a cruiser started racing to our rescue. Large cargo nets were swung over the side of the burning transport. . . . We began clawing at the ropes of the net as though it was a rope ladder.

"Some of the men fell from the net into the water, but it was still light and Navy men quickly pulled them from the water onto the destroyer. I don't believe any of the passengers were lost but I am sure a lot of the crew must have been burned, the fire spread so fast.

Officer Burned.

"I saw one officer climb out of the hatch, badly burned. He ran blindly toward the railing where others tried to help him."

The survivors included civilian workers, relieved of duty three hours before the disaster, and a northern base, and passengers who had embarked at a European port. Among them, in addition to Crabtree, were Sven Gothe, Cambridge, Mass.; John W. Walker, Central Falls, R. I.; Herbert Proulx, Saylesville, R. I.; John Cuddy, Providence, and Lyman Parmelee, Auburn, R. I.

At the time of her launching the Wakefield, then the Manhattan, was the largest ship ever built in the United States, 24,289 gross tons. She had eight decks and a passenger capacity of 1,300. Early in the war the ship figured in the repatriation of Americans stranded in Europe.

A survivor from Maine, who declined to be quoted by name, supplemented Crabtree's account of the fire with this:

"We heard a muffled explosion far below deck. Then the fire seemed to spread like a barn full of hay.

Explosives Cast Out.

"Deckhands and men from the rescue ships began tossing explosives over the side.

"An officer shouted at another one, 'How about the forward magazine, has she been flooded?'

"To my dying day I'll remember the reply: 'Yes, flooded.'"

"And then the first officer said: 'Good work, good work.'"

Another survivor told how a company of Marines boarded the burning ship, loaded their rifles and announced that anyone causing a panic would be shot.

The survivor went on to tell, too, of how the men from the Wakefield went down the cargo nets to the destroyer and cruiser.

"I never saw such work in my life," he said. "It was the greatest exhibition of courage and devotion to duty I ever witnessed."

The history of the once majestic liner, whose colonial decor was described as a masterpiece of simple charm, is a romantic story of records at sea, of tragedy, labor strife, and international intrigue.

She was christened the Manhattan at Camden, N. J., by Mrs. Edith Kermit Roosevelt, widow of President Theodore Roosevelt, and when she slid down the ways, George Fried, the noted sea skipper, said:

"A young lady has been born."

The "young lady" made her first sea test in July, 1932, carrying 300 distinguished guests. On that sailing, she established a speed record for cabin ships.

That August, she made her maiden voyage to Hamburg, with 875 passengers. Elaborate ceremonies marked her arrival, but official Navy photograph, taken from another ship in the convoy, shows destroyer (left) speeding on rescue mission. More than 1,600 passengers and crew finally were removed without loss of life.

Rickenbacker Says U. S. Ships Toughest Aloft

Hits Critics Who Knocked Efficiency of Long-Range Bomber.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, famous American flyer, said tonight that American fighter planes "are the toughest things aloft" and "no other bomber has such a record in Europe" as that established recently by the American B-17s.

"American made bombers repeatedly have blasted their targets in Germany," Rickenbacker said in an address at a Chamber of Commerce dinner.

"American made fighters until recently have knocked Japanese Zero fighters out of the skies at the rate of two to one—and we have only just begun."

Rickenbacker, an American ace in the first World War, was sharply critical of self-styled home-made "experts" who belittle American aviation.

"The long-range bomber that is now our Flying Fortress—the B-17—had its bitter critics," he said.

"An expert said to me in 1936, 'This plane is a monument to brass hat stupidity. Not only is it poorly built but its high altitude flying will make it impossible for its crew to bomb accurately. It will be an easy mark for enemy fighters.'"

"I wish this critic could have gone along with General Eaker when Flying Fortresses bombed Rouen. I wish he could have seen those German fighters trying desperately to attack the B-17s at 35,000 feet. When the German fighters tried to do battle in that thin air they dropped off and lost to 2,000 feet of altitude. But the B-17s flew right on. When some Germans did get close the B-17s opened up from their power turrets in a cross-fire and shot down German fighters and fighter fighters—the Focke-Wulf 190s."

Some "home-made experts," he added, "also are making much of the fact that American men are flying Spitfires in England, citing this as proof that American fighter planes are inferior to Britain's."

"Nothing could be further from the truth. There are two main reasons why we fly Spitfires in England. One is that the British production of Spitfires is so rapid that you might almost say that there is a Spitfire being built every bush in England. So why ship pineapples to Honolulu? Another reason . . . is because the Spitfire . . . has been built especially for the type of action it is called upon to perform. . . ."

Lexington Hero Gets Navy Cross

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Commander Arthur J. White, one of World War II's previously undiscovered naval heroes and a survivor of the ill-fated U. S. aircraft carrier Lexington, received the Navy cross today during simple ceremonies at the U. S. Naval Academy.

One of the Lexington's senior medical officers, White was cited for his refusal to abandon ship although both his ankles and a shoulder were fractured and numerous wounds were inflicted by two thunderous explosions which shattered the stricken carrier in the Coral Sea.

MacArthur Gives DSC To Air Hero

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Sept. 9.—(AP)—An American lieutenant, who deliberately rammed his plane into a Japanese fighter to save the life of his squadron commander, was one of nine officers of the United States Army air forces honored with the Distinguished Service Cross today by General Douglas MacArthur.

He is Second Lieutenant A. T. House, of Long Beach, Cal., who not only destroyed the enemy fighter by crashing his left wing against its cockpit, but was able to break away and, though his plane was crippled, return to his base and land safely.

Dorothy Thompson Discusses Allied Propaganda

By DOROTHY THOMPSON.

Now, although our psychological warfare is in a secret theater, from which the public is excluded as far as any official information is concerned, the over-curious can occasionally worm their way in.

If one knows foreign languages, or has friends who do, one can occasionally catch a wave-length on which we speak to our enemies. (I hope there is no death penalty for listening to one's country's own broadcasts.)

Having indulged in this faintly seditious occupation on numerous occasions, I confess that I do not know what we are up to. Our news to Germany, for instance, is sometimes very dramatic, if drama consists in it being uttered by various voices in a drama-of-the-air technique. But if you ask me what is the political line, I do not know the answer.

Broadcasts to Italy.

Listening to our broadcasts to Italy I have been somewhat clearer, but not, I confess, happier. For it seems to me that the House of Savoy is concerned, we are playing up the House of Savoy against Mussolini, and hoping for a revolt from the most reactionary and moribund elements in Italy. It would seem that the British and the Americans are the last people on this globe who place faith in Victor Emanuel.

In fact, we can fall into the most hopeless political morass through a lack of clear understanding of the real dynamics of social forces in Europe. If, for instance, we intend to outbid the Nazis in appeals to reactionary elements, we intend to outbid the Nazis in appeals to reactionary elements, we will certainly fail, for the Nazis are playing with far more active forces than tottering monarchies, decadent aristocracies and political groups that are out of phase with the times, through demonstrated weakness and incapacity.

Hope for Disgruntled.

Yet we are playing with them—and apparently on the thesis that we should offer hope to all the disgruntled regardless of who they are.

But effective propaganda cannot be made this way. The Axis knows it. It is true, for instance, that Japan tells a great many flat contradictory stories and makes a great many contradictory promises. But she does not make contradictory promises to the same listeners. She says one thing to the Chinese, another to the Malaysians, another to the Dutch in the Netherlands East Indies, and still another to the Australians. And she so beams her propaganda that the Australians cannot hear what she is saying to the Dutch and Chinese. Therefore, the contradictions are not caught, except as the Allies catch them and retransmit them.

Now everything we send to one European country can be heard by everybody in Europe—as far as the wave length reaches. And to whatever country we broadcast, our words must be that they reach and reflect the mental tendencies of the broadcast part of the population.

House of Savoy.

If we broadcast to Italy praise for the House of Savoy, some aristocrats may be pleased, but the peasants and the workers will spit. For 20 years now the House of Savoy has been tied with Mussolini and has never made a move against Fascism, or against any of its major policies.

Besides this, for the Italian worker and peasant, even Mussolini is a step beyond the House of Savoy. It is the fake shot of socialism in fascism, and its claim to be run by a Man of the People, that gives it its power. We cannot destroy that power by trying to restore the 19th century—by a kind of Metetrich politics, favored by certain persons in all Allied political offices.

Political warfare, in this epoch of the 20th century, to be at all effective, must be revolutionary. And you cannot make revolutionary propaganda without a revolution.

Now, as I have said in previous columns, rebellion and revolt are not, of themselves, revolutionary. It is frivolous to call upon European workers to shoot at Fascists, and to induce in other rebellions acts outside the frame of some major revolutionary objective to be achieved.

And I fear that the trouble with American propaganda to Europe is that we do not understand the stage of development which Europe has reached. Europe is nationalist—yes. It is against being dominated by one power. But bitter experience has led the masses of the people to look for something beyond nationalism.

Europe is also socialist—that is to say, all the active and dynamic forces in Europe are Socialist. As far as Europe is concerned, there is an issue between Capitalism and Socialism. The only question at issue is 'What kind of Socialism?' We could put our influence behind a democratic and moderate socialism, put political freedom, and personal freedom, and have a program that would appeal to Europeans.

But if the out-worn ideas of old diplomacies prevent us from coming to grips with the situation, and we are so scared of socialism that we back ghosts, for what can we ask the people to revolt? Our propaganda in that case can be not only ineffective but positively harmful.

Now, my guess is that the persons conducting our propaganda feel this; they must be conscious of a lack of policy. And that may be one reason for the fact that our whole political propaganda is a secret theater of war.

For wherever there is secrecy, there is likely to be vacuity as well.

Axis Policy.

The Axis propaganda has a policy because its leaders of the Axis powers have a perfectly clear picture in their minds of the kind of a world they wish to achieve. Their propaganda is a perfectly financed instrument for the achievement of that world. When they lie, as they do, they lie for a very clear purpose.

But we even tell the truth without any clear purpose. For we have no clear picture of the kind of world we wish to achieve. Our only guides are the extremely amorphous statements of the Atlantic Charter. We promise to free people from want and fear, but we don't say how. We don't even convince ourselves.

In fact, we go to war with that iron determination described by an English schoolboy, in Cecil Hunt's "Book of Howlers."

"The Duke of Marlborough," wrote the boy, in a school examination, "was a great general who always commenced every battle with a fixed determination in his mind to win or lose."

Angry Crowd Tries To Mob Slayer of Four

Mexico City Police Say Victims May Number Six or More.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Shouting men and women tried to mob Mexico City's student stranger today to avenge the slaying of four young women he garroted while diverting their attention with test tubes and books, and tonight police said his victims may actually number six or more.

The 27-year-old slayer, Gregorio Cardenas Hernandez, honor student in chemistry, already has confessed killing four women in less than a month, one of them his "only love." He said he kept her body for hours before burying it at dawn in a shallow grave in his garden.

Tonight police were trying to link Cardenas with the strangling of yet another girl and the disappearance of a sixth.

A bootblack told them he had seen Cardenas about a week ago in a local cabaret in the company of a girl who later was found strangled in a cheap hotel. The boy said he recognized pictures of Cardenas published today.

Police also were informed by a woman named Cacho that her daughter went riding with a man, unknown to the mother about 10 days ago, and has not been seen since.

Angry women with brooms and men with stones and pieces of metal attempted to reach Cardenas when police took him back to the garden to hear his story, but officers held them back.

"Better to kill him here and now," the crowd shouted.

The story as reported by police disclosed that three were strangled by the same cord as he mortally diverted their attention to a book or a test tube in his rooms. He had met them in the streets.

3-A Volunteers Restricted to 11 Officer Schools

Army Closes 7 Camps to Candidates Due to Acceptances.

Fourth Service Command headquarters announced yesterday that men who apply as volunteer officer candidates in the Army will hereafter be admitted to one of 11 Army schools, adding that seven schools have been closed to volunteer officer candidates.

In announcing the change in officer training to 3-A selective service registrants, Army officers said there is a pressing need for more qualified applicants for anti-aircraft artillery, engineer, signal and tank destroyer schools. Other schools still open are armored force, cavalry, infantry, ordnance and chemical warfare.

The Army Air Force's administrative candidate school, Army administrative quartermaster, medical administrative, finance, adjutant general's and military police schools are no longer open to selective service registrants because of the large number of accepted applicants within the military service.

Qualified registrants whose induction or whose processing at reception centers is now being accomplished, or has been authorized, will not be affected by the change.

Those whose induction has not yet been authorized will be notified they will be eligible to compete for selection only at one of the schools still open to volunteer officer candidates. Qualified registrants not desiring to attend any of these schools will be dropped from the waiting list, Fourth Service Command headquarters said.

Waycross, Ga., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Billy King, immediate past president of the Waycross Lions Club, has been appointed zone chairman in charge of the Lions Clubs at Waycross, Homerville, Lakeland and Valdosta, by the district governor, Dr. Fred L. Damren, of Augusta.

Co-ordinator Demanding More Power, Says N. Y. Report.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Members of the Atlantic Coast Oil Associations conference were told today, an official said, that Secretary of Interior Ickes had submitted his resignation as oil co-ordinator to President Roosevelt, to become effective unless Ickes is given adequate authority to enforce his orders.

Clyde G. Morrill, secretary of the conference, said members had been advised of Ickes' proposed step by Dr. John W. Frey, assistant to Ralph Davies, deputy petroleum co-ordinator.

Morrill asserted Ickes had mentioned his intention to resign from the petroleum post, unless granted more authority, at a meeting in Washington last week with the advisory committee of eastern petroleum leaders.

Ickes was dissatisfied with being forced to have his orders approved by numerous other departments and individuals, Morrill added, including Donald Nelson, head of the War Production Board; Leon Henderson, price administrator; Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, and Joseph B. Eastman, defense transportation co-ordinator.

The 50 delegates at the conference today unanimously adopted a resolution calling on President Roosevelt to vest more power in Ickes.

Morrill also declared that as a result of weekly conferences held this summer by Ickes and industry leaders, a pooling plan has been evolved to bring about more equitable distribution of fuel oil to eastern states.

Daylight Alert Will Be Tough, Phillips Says

Atlanta's First 'Sunout' Is Scheduled for September 23.

Atlanta will face its toughest civilian defense test September 23 when the first daylight alert is held, George M. Phillips, metropolitan area director, announced yesterday.

The alert, to be held between 10 o'clock and noon, calls for the evacuation of all office workers to shelters and the stopping of all traffic, Phillips said.

"It's going to be tougher than a blackout, Phillips pointed out, because office workers must be taken from the top and bottom floors to centrally located shelters.

"The traffic problem in the middle of a regular business day is going to be something, too. We're going to experiment quite a bit on this first daylight alert. All persons will be required to go to shelters, and motorists and those riding street cars and buses must get to shelters."

First-aid personnel will man their stations and cases of fire and injury will be turned in to test the efficiency of the civilian defense organization.

Auxiliary firemen and police also will be used in the test, Phillips said.

Any Dentists In House? 4 Aid O'Brien

FORT CUSTER, Mich., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Veteran film star Pat O'Brien convinced the Army Tuesday night that "the show must go on."

During the first performance of a USO variety show for servicemen, O'Brien lost a porcelain crown from a front tooth.

Bemoaning the loss between acts, O'Brien asked if there were any dentists in the house who would fix his bridge work in a hurry.

There were and they did. Standing in the wings were four majors, all dental graduates of Marquette University, O'Brien's

Alma Mater, who were waiting to shake hands with the star. Hearing his plea, the four officers rushed O'Brien to the dental clinic, gave him a quick once-over and moulded a temporary porcelain crown, enabling him to continue for the second show.

Four Sororities Announce Party Series for Rush Day

• • • REPRESENTATIVES of the four Panhellenic sororities, the Phi Pi, the Sigma Delta, the O. B. X. and the Pi Pi, are completing plans for rush day, September 26, when the group of young belles extended bids to membership in the sororities will be feted at a round of parties between 10 and 6 o'clock, the hours chosen for the four big entertainments.

This year the traditional week of rushing has been reduced to one day, and Anne DuPre, who is president of the Panhellenic Council, as well as head of the Phi Pi sorority, has been busy with the other council officers completing plans for the parties, which will be limited to two hours each.

The opening affair will be a breakfast to be given by members of the Phi Pi sorority, who will entertain between 10 and 12 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving Club. Acting as official hostesses will be the officers, who are Anne DuPre, president; Clara Jones, vice president; Florence Akers, secretary, and Mary Humphries, treasurer.

After the Phi Pi breakfast, the rushers will be guests of the Pi Pi sorority, who have planned a luncheon at Brookhaven, the Capital City Country Club, and Sally hears that this affair will be very unusual and full of surprises. Betty Greve is the president of the Pi Pi's and the other officers are Matilde Turner, vice president; Nancy Woodward, secretary, and Jean Frazier, treasurer.

The afternoon parties will begin with a carnival to be given by members of the Sigma Delta sorority, although the scene of the party has not been determined. Jacqueline Pope is president of this sorority and will act as official hostess, with her corps of officers, who are Margaret Ann Speas, vice president; Joan Jagels, secretary, and Anne Sanford, treasurer.

Climaxing the parties will be the tea to be given by the O. B. X. members, this gala affair to be given at the Driving Club. Heading this sorority is Roslyn Ison and her officers are Rebecca James, vice president; Jean Cantwell, secretary, and Mimi Jenks, treasurer.

• • • THE PASSING of Mrs. J. J. Joines removes from the horticultural field a very remarkable woman, who understood and spoke the language of the flowers. She possessed a natural gift for growing and cultivating flowers and deserved being called the "First Flower Lady of Atlanta."

Her garden in the rear of her home on Gordon street was her sanctum-sanctorum, for Mrs. Joines spent her life among her flowers and knew the name and kinship of every plant and blossom. She stood ever ready to furnish flowers at any season for happy or sad occasions, as the case warranted, and her arrangements were artistic as well as graceful.

Mrs. Joines began to work with flowers in her youth, and even in the last days of her life she did not neglect caring for and loving her garden. She was known far and near for her beautiful flowers, and many of her customers were the daughters and sons of the friends she made in her girlhood days.

• • • POSTAL pennygrams in verse invited guests to the tea at which Frances Shumate will entertain this afternoon for Wesleyan College students, Wesleyan faculty members, and Group I of the alumnae association.

The affair will take place at her home on Beverly road from 3 to 5 o'clock and will assemble 50 guests. These will be given hair ribbons in the college colors by a quartet of future belles, including Nancy Womack, Susan Ann McKenzie, Marion Persons and Betty Walker. Crystal and silver will predominate in the dining room.

Auld Lang Syne Club Meets for Luncheon.

Mrs. Horace Frazier will entertain members of the Auld Lang Syne Club today at a luncheon at her home, 1386 Sylvan road.

Members to be present are Mesdames W. E. Stratford, O. C. Wise, R. N. Birdsong, R. S. Carroll, B. C. Cawthon, S. A. Dailey, C. C. Fambrough, A. E. Foster, J. A. Gaston, H. L. Keelin, W. W. Morgan, H. D. Rape, W. H. Sivils and Miss Lucile Moon.

Miss Frances Moore Weds Lieutenant Wesley Rose Jr.

Of cordial social interest is the announcement made today of the marriage of Miss Frances Cornelia Moore, lovely daughter of Mrs. Ralph R. Moore, to Lieutenant Wesley J. Rose Jr., of Camp Howze, Texas, formerly of Johnstown, Pa. The engagement of the popular pair was announced recently.

The ceremony took place on Saturday evening, September 5, at 9 o'clock at Druid Hills Baptist church, Dr. Louie D. Newton officiating. A musical program was presented by William D. Manley, cousin of the bride, and Miss Charlotte Bruce, her close friend, who sang.

Miss Jane Brantley Marries Lieut. Robert Lloyd Rees

The First Presbyterian church formed the setting for the marriage of Miss Jane Elizabeth Brantley, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Pomeroy Brantley, to Lieutenant Robert Lloyd Rees, U. S. M. C. R., of San Diego, Cal., son of Mrs. Harry L. Rees, of Atlanta, the ceremony having been solemnized at 9 o'clock last evening. Dr. William V. Gardner officiated, and Dr. Charles Sheldon, organist, and the bride's sister, Miss Betty Brantley, soloist, presented the music.

The altar was banked with palms and centered with a Grecian urn filled with white gladioli and dahlias. Eight seven-branched candelabra held lighted white tapers.

Gordon Curtis Sr., Dr. Gaston Gay, H. G. Walker and A. B. Greene were the ushers.

The bride's two sisters, Miss Betty Brantley, as maid of honor, and Mrs. Arthur Snellgrove Jr., of Manhattan, Kan., as the matron of honor, were gowned alike in models featuring line taffeta skirts and fitted bodices of velvet in a deeper tone. They carried bouquets of rose asters.

Little Elizabeth Gay, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gaston Gay, was the flower girl. She wore a frock of shell-pink marquisette posed over matching taffeta and trimmed with tiny satin rosebuds. She carried a nosegay of shell-pink asters and roses.

The radiant bride entered with her father, and they were met at the altar by the groom and Ensign Robert Mott, of Charleston, S. C., who acted as best man. White marquisette fashioned the bride's exquisite wedding dress. The basque waist was fashioned of lace, and wide bands of lace trimmed the full skirt and train. Her tulle veil was caught to a lace coronet and featured a face veil. Her only ornament was a diamond and amethyst cross belonging to her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Edward Stow. Her flowers were a bouquet of swainsona and orchids.

Mrs. Brantley chose for her daughter's wedding a costume of heaven blue marquisette trimmed with lace inserts. Mrs. Rees, the groom's mother, wore a model of white lace. Both wore shoulder sprays of orchids.

Following the ceremony the bridal couple left for a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., and Los Angeles, Cal. The bride traveled in a two-piece original model of black crepe trimmed with black sequins. Her hat, top coat and other accessories were black and her flowers were orchids. The couple will reside in San Diego, Cal., where the groom is stationed.

Woman Must Learn To Make a Choice Between Home and Pride

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie: I have been married two years and have one child. My husband and I lived with his parents at the time of our baby's birth. When I was able to leave the hospital he carried me to my mother's, leaving me there in her care and at her expense. I did not dream he was going to leave me for good and could not realize he had, until it was over. He simply stopped coming to see me and did not show any interest in our baby. I cannot understand this sudden change in him for he had always been good to me. I lived with my mother for three months, waiting for him to come back, but he never did, so I moved out to myself. He is working in a near-by town, and now four months later, he comes to see me occasionally, gives me money and pays my bill, but will not stay with me. I do not know whether there is another woman or not, but I love him and want him back. But how? DESERTED WIFE.

I do not think you will ever accomplish your aim if you continue the method you have now . . . that of letting him come when he wants to and pay a few scattered bills and partly support you and the baby. As long as you let this continue, the longer it will, and any reconciliation will be improbable.

If I were in your place, I would have a bit of say-so about the situation and tell him frankly that you do not care for these infrequent visits. And that you do not think it is a good idea, that if he has deserted you, which is certainly apparent, you do not want him around. You might also tell him that you have a child, his child, to rear, and that if, for awhile while you occupy all your time. Cases such as yours are really one which only the individual may solve.

Is he worth forgiving? Is this his first lapse? You must save what is most valuable to you, your home, your child, your self-respect, or pride. If you forgive your husband and beg him to come back to you, you must do it with your eyes open. If he has strayed once, there is that possibility that he will do so again. It is hard to make a success of marriage when faith has been destroyed.

NEEDS MORE INFORMATION Dear Dixie: I am a 15-year-old girl. I have dreamed of being more than what I am, but it seems as if I never get anywhere. My family has always had bad luck and a girl can't do much without a mother. Tell me what to do, if it is only to try to forget these things. LONESOME.

Your letter is a bit vague about your dreams and why you cry. Why don't you write to me again and give me more information? Remember, though, that dreams cannot be realized over night, and one must be patient and know that the best is going to happen. Mothers are very necessary and very important, but remember that there are many girls in your same situation who have attained a great deal of success in the world, because of the memory of a mother. Write to me again.

Calcium May Aid Catarrah Victims

By Dr. William Brady.

Ca is the symbol for calcium (lime). D is vitamin D, which is essential for assimilation and utilization of calcium from food or medicine. Catarrh, in the common sense of the word, is chronic inflammation of and excessive secretion from the mucous membrane lining the nose and air passages. This mucous membrane is continuous with the lining of the throat, larynx (voice box), windpipe and bronchial tubes, and with that of the pharynx or upper throat, the sinuses, the Eustachian tubes and the middle ear cavities.

One of the physiological functions of calcium in the body is to diminish or control permeability of capillary channels—whether the blood seeps between the cells. Nutrition studies find that the refined diet of the average American today is more likely to be deficient in calcium than in any other element.

So much for the scientific part. Now let us relapse. Here is a testimonial received from a reader. Before you read it let me repeat that one swallow maketh not a summer and it is human nature to paint a good picture when you're writing a testimonial.

"I have written you on various occasions and have received much benefit from your advice. (Evidently the reader has taken the trouble to inclose a stamped envelope bearing her address when she wrote.)

"Quite some time ago I asked you about catarrh for my son, who had been troubled with it for several years. I had taken him to several doctors here in —, had his nose drained several times, used various drops and sprays for the nose, with little or no appreciable effect on the trouble. Following your suggestion I began giving him calcium and vitamin D to supplement his diet, and in a few weeks there was a distinct improvement in a few months he was practically cured of the nasty pesky condition. (Signed —)

Calcium feeding, high calcium diet, etc., described in pamphlet "The Calcium Shortage" available on request if you provide stamped envelope bearing your address.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Neglected Dogs. Once I had a prescription from your column filled and used it for athlete's foot—it gave prompt relief and cure. Now I'd like to do what I can for my neglected dogs before they give out and make me unable to hold my job here. I'd be thankful if you will send me a booklet you mentioned recently on "Care of the Feet." (W. R. M.) Answer—The recipe and instructions for use of Whitfield's ointment for foot itch will be found in the booklet. For copy of "Care of the Feet" send 10 cents coin and three-cent-stamped envelope bearing your address.

Belly Breathing.

You said Schafer introduced "belly breathing" in America in 1908. My vocal instructor in the late '90s (yes, I am an old lady) taught me with other students at the college that method of breathing. She was trained in Italy. She had to lie down with a glassful of water on her chest, and you know it would have been too bad had she breathed with her chest. I always enjoy your plain-speaking talks.

(Mrs. C. H. D.) Answer—I said Schafer introduced his method of artificial respiration (prone-pressure) in this country in 1908. Who introduced belly breathing in America I wouldn't know, but I believe it was a fellow named Adam. However, the idea of a glassful of water on the chest is a good one. The trick being to inflate the belly as thoroughly, evenly and quietly as possible (watch your hand resting on belly rise and fall) without spilling any water. On request, if you inclose a three-cent stamped envelope bearing your address, I'll send you a pamphlet on "Belly Breathing," which tells how to do it and why.

A Cautious Start Is Best For Daily Exercise Routine

By Ida Jean Kain.

This is the fourth in a series of 12 articles by Ida Jean Kain in which she offers a physical fitness program for women during wartime. General rules governing the correct way of exercising is today's tonic.

You meet such interesting people who exercise. For a fact, almost all the women who have the gumption to exercises every day are unusually attractive and the men outstandingly successful.

Exercise does plenty for you. It makes you look better, helps you to feel like a new person, and gives you extra drive. The emphasis placed on calisthenics in every career where physical fitness and beauty count should be enough to get you started. Just try a good set of exercises for the next three weeks. You will feel so fit you will want to keep on.

The reason most people don't benefit is they don't get any. When they do take a whirl at a daily dozen, they overdo and promptly call it quits. Start slowly. Sore muscles don't mean an exercise is "taking." Nothing is gained by getting stiff. For the first few days, limit yourself to five minutes at a stretch and gradually increase in time and vigor.

Whenever calisthenics cause a restless night, you have overdone. A rhythm of exercise and rest should help you to sleep soundly. It's this exercise-rest rhythm that makes you fit. Always follow a thorough workout by relaxing completely. Lie down warmly covered and just rest for 15 minutes or more.

In specific exercise, you want to make every movement exact in order to put the right muscles to work. Move slowly and accurately and you will get results faster. You have more freedom of movement in a swim or playset. You can't expect to exercise as effectively in street clothes. But some of you have asked whether it helps to take a few bending exercises in street clothes. Of course it helps. Loosen your belt and unzip and go ahead and take your upstretches and side bends. As a regular thing, however, the fewer clothes the better.

As to the best time of day to exercise, that is up to the individual. Take it when you can get it regularly. If you exercise before breakfast or late at night, take the easy, stretching kind. Jumping about and bending over are apt to be unsettling and overstimulating. You should not exercise right after a meal. Never take exercise when you have a cold or any other infection.

It is not necessary to have the room cold when exercising. What is important is a good circulation of fresh air.

These are the general rules that give you a better workout. Tomorrow we will go into the technique for specific exercise to trim the waist.

If you are too thin, here is a sample menu that will start you to gaining:

Let's Try Your Casting Ability With a Pencil and Paper

By Harold Heffernan.

Everybody likes to cast moving pictures, but only a few get the chance. For example, movie fans everywhere treated the dozen principal parts of "Gone With the Wind" to a more thorough mental casting than any best-seller in history. But it was bossman David O. Selznick, the producer, who made the final choices.

Now, then, let's pretend you're Norman Krasna. Krasna is a writer, producer and director. He's just putting "Princess O'Rourke," a comedy-drama, before the cameras at Warners.

So, we'll play our own little casting game. First of all, look over the following player identifications, as taken from Krasna's script. Study them well. Think of actors you know who seem to fill each bill and mark their names down.

Eddie O'Rourke—an Irish-American, young, sincere, likeable. He's the hero.

Princess Maria—patrician and frail, beautiful, very young, wide-eyed. This is the girl the hero is going to marry.

Uncle—forceful, dominant, 60, tough, you never saw a man so sure of himself. This is the uncle of Maria.

Dave—brash, aggressive, nice. This is Eddie's best friend.

Jean—this is Dave's wife. She is sweeter than the usually sounds.

Count Peter De Chandome—very short, about 5 feet and 3 inches; 40 years old, charming, but, as we said, short.

Stewardess—age of typical airplane stewardess, attractive, capable.

Mr. Washburn—he is 50, just as clever as uncle. Very sympathetic and understanding.

Delivery Boy—a boy of 18, buck-toothed, freckles, a gum-chewer.

Greek Cafe Owner—a man like (George) Tobias would be perfect.

Stranger—this to be a real big fellow in order to knock Eddie down believably.

First Aid Instructor—an intelligent woman of 35.

Mrs. Bower—a housewife. A little on the comic side.

Mrs. Mulvaney—has authority and intelligence and sympathy.

Girl Singer—this one must be wonderful, voice and looks, with Alice Faye delivery.

All right, now that you've read how the writer-producer-director described his characters, whom would you cast in those roles? Krasna finally picked, and we're running them into a solid paragraph so the names won't stand out and spoil your casting fun:

Eddie O'Rourke—Robert Cummings; Princess Maria—Olivia de Havilland; Uncle—Charles Coburn; Dave—Jack Carson; Jean—

Jane Wyman; Count De Chandome—Curt Bois; Stewardess—Julie Bishop; Mr. Washburn—Minor Watson; Delivery Boy—Dave Willock; Greek Cafe Owner—Frank Puglia; Stranger—Ed Gargan; First Aid Instructor—Jean Innes; Mrs. Bower—Nydia Westman; Mrs. Mulvaney—Nan Bryant; Girl Singer—Nan Wynn.

Finally, compare your selections with Krasna's and tab your own rating as a casting director—taking into consideration, of course, that a lot of likely choices you might name wouldn't be available for use at Krasna's studio.

MY DAY: Dog Versus Real Estate Owner

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday.—This morning I am in a mood when I wish that I could only see one side of a question. The other night a very important gentleman told me that he found it very difficult, because he could often see two sides to every question. It is certainly much more convenient to be a crusader and close your mind to everything but your own point of view. In the sad tale I am going to tell you today, I would like to have only one point of view, though I know that there is another.

A lady writes me that she has a thoroughbred six-month-old scottie dog she has trained and brought up from puppyhood. She is the wife of an officer and is trying to find a place to lay her head in overcrowded Washington, so that she can be with her husband until he is ordered away. But the "hardhearted" real estate people, who sometimes refuse to rent apartments to people with babies, are even more adamant when it comes to dogs.

She agrees that if her dog became a nuisance to the neighbors, he should go, because she thinks that in that case the pet would also become a nuisance to her. She has no one to whom she can give the poor little scottie, and the choice seems to be between getting rid of him, or seeking in vain for a place in which to live.

It will become anyone who lives in the house with Fala and knows what a joy a really well-behaved pet dog can be, even to consider the real estate owner's point of view for a second. But I do know that if you are running a crowded development and a great many people have pets, they make a difference to the grounds and mean added complications in the house for an often sorely tried manager. I am sure from this woman's letter that she would always have a well-trained and well-behaved dog. Unfortunately, everybody is not as considerate or as capable.

I can only suggest trying to find a real estate owner who feels the same devotion to dogs that my correspondent and I have in common, because gas and rubber shortages make it impossible to move out of town.

—Our Flag Is Still There

In distant places all around this war-torn world, Americans look up, each dawn, to whisper in new understanding the words of our national anthem: "Oh! say, does that star-spangled banner still wave?"

In New Guinea, Georgians who once formed that historic military organization, the Governor's Horse Guard, glance upward from their action-hot anti-aircraft guns and see the starry emblem fluttering boldly in the tropic breeze.

Under the cold glare of Northern Lights, during the long winter night of Iceland, American soldiers tramp steadily on their sentry beat, calm in the assurance that the stripes of red and white float bravely over that outpost of defense.

The flag flies in North Ireland, from the flag staffs of American Army cantonments, and it flies, serene and secure, at Pearl Harbor and Dutch Harbor and all those other strong points the treacherous Jap thought, once, to wrest from us.

And, doubt it not, the eternal spirit of that flag still flies over Corregidor and Bataan and the Philippines. The Filipinos, remembering their loyal friends the Americans, know the real flag will, someday, fly again against their blue sky and, knowing this, they keep it flying in their hearts, despite the temporary ascendancy of the brutal foe.

On thousands of ships all around the world, on little spots of America, made so because American feet are firmly planted there, the starry emblem of human freedom flies. And, so long as American arms and American courage and American resource remain in one American heart, it shall continue to fly.

Your flag and my flag,
And how it flies today
In your land and my land
And half a world away!
Rose-red and blood-red
The stripes forever gleam;
Snow-white and soul-white—
The good forefathers' dream;
Sky-blue and true-blue,
Stars to gleam aghast—
The gloried guidon of the day,
A shelter through the night.

One of War's Blessings

Nothing more beneficial to the nation's drug addicts could have happened than the spreading of the war into Asia. It has done more to bring the evil of drug smuggling and peddling under control than all the preventive agencies in the country combined.

Morphine, heroin and opium are manufactured chiefly in Japanese-controlled territory. The output, if anything, has doubtless increased under the "new order in Asia." But the flow into the United States and the western hemisphere has diminished to a trickle.

For this reason, according to the United States Commissioner of Narcotics, the unlawful supply of these harmful drugs has reached an all-time low—forcing the nation's 45,000 addicts to take an involuntary cure.

Because of this shortage of dope in the underground channels, adulteration has reached a point where most of the heroin dispensed from umbrella handles and trick walking sticks has lost its kick. Much of it is said to contain ninety-eight per cent milk sugar. This phoney stuff has worked, and is working, a slow, steady cure without the knowledge of the addicts, who use it.

But with no world outlet for the abominable traffic, the Chinese, and other unfortunate people under the crushing heel of the Japanese military machine, are tempted with the surplus, as well as the normal supply. New dope joints have sprung up by the thousands all over occupied Asia. The proprietors, of course, are the Japanese.

Nevertheless, the effect in the United States, and other nations, should be regarded as nothing less than one of war's blessings. And it is to be hoped when the war ends, and the representatives of all the people gather around the table, the blessing will be made permanent throughout the world.

Nazi Celebration

The Nazis have their own way of celebrating anniversaries. It is the way of murder. Three months to the day after the infamous Hangman Heydrich died of wounds inflicted by Czech patriots, the Germans announced the execution of four churchmen. One of the victims was a bishop. The murdered men were charged with concealing and aiding parachute agents accused of the assassination of the hangman, who, it will be recalled, was termed by Hitler as a fine example of Nazidom.

Property of the churchmen was confiscated, and then they were executed. Knowing the Nazi method, it is reasonable to assume these churchmen had no more to do with the killing of Heydrich than a newborn babe. Yet the Nazis wanted them out of the way, and so took that excuse to get rid of them. It is a horrible, a familiar pattern. But that is the enemy we face. He is that kind of beast.

The latest executions were more of the same sort of thing the Nazis have been doing for a long time. Already the Gestapo's vengeance for the slaying of Heydrich has claimed hundreds, perhaps thousands, of innocent Czech lives. It has resulted in the destruction of two villages and the death, arrest or transportation of their populations.

When Ambassador Grew told the nation the only way the Japs can be beaten is for them to be killed, he could have been talking about the Nazis, too. They must be wiped out. They are a disease that can—and will—be exterminated.

Belgians Still Fight

The Belgians are doing their share of fighting against the Nazi tyrants, thus adding another chapter in that large volume being written in blood, sweat, toll and tears, a book which might well bear the title, "The Struggle for Liberty." It is good to hear that many of these brave people are actively engaged against the common enemy. The latest news comes in reports from London on the recent commando raid against Dieppe.

This raid was in fact a real United Nations action, on land, on the sea and in the air. And among airmen who distinguished themselves over Dieppe were members of a Belgian squadron. This combat group accounted for the destruction of six Nazi planes and probable destruction of 12 more. In the fight, the Belgians lost only one pilot.

Belgians, too, are doing their part in other war theaters. They have been, and are, especially active on the vital middle eastern front. In Libyan battles, the Belgians have destroyed enemy planes. They have sunk ships, attacked numerous motorized columns, participated in protection of convoys to Malta and Alexandria. In addition, Belgian pilots are considered among the British Fighter Command's best night fighters. The Belgians are carrying on.

Better Foxholes

The moral of the story of Sergeant James W. Hurlbut on Guadalcanal might be that when better foxholes are built, the Marines will better them.

So we find Sergeant Hurlbut concerned chiefly with the design and comfort of his small world on a remote island, working between raids and shellings to improve his foxhole and at the same time his chances to survive these attacks. If by his improved cover he remains safe and sound for an additional day, or week, or month, then he has helped others in their identical quest. A man might not want to live forever, as the Marine sergeant in World War the first declared, but he does not want to throw his life away uselessly.

To that end, Sergeant Hurlbut and thousands like him are designing better foxholes.

Georgia Editors Say:

WHAT ABOUT OUR OLD CANNONS?
(From The Bainbridge Post-Search Light.)
We have been observing in other places that the old World War cannons and cannons of other wars are being turned in for scrap to help win this present war.

We have several cannons and cannon balls in the City park and also two cannons down at the River bridge. They will certainly do us no good if the United Nations are defeated.

It seems to me that with scrap iron, steel, etc., being necessary to continue the war effort, that we could part with these cannons to help win the war.

When the war is won we can get all kinds of cannons, etc., to place back in the park, or down at the River bridge.

It has been suggested to the writer that all these cannons be gathered up and sold, the money received going to some worthwhile cause.

Let's do it right away. Winter is coming on and the steel mills, etc., are going to have to depend on the south to furnish scrap iron, steel, etc.

We don't know who has the custody of these cannons, etc., but we believe that it is agreeable with the citizens of this city and county to sell them to aid the war effort.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

URGENT SCRAP NEED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Donald Nelson, head of the War Production Board, has asked the newspapers of the country to take leadership in a drive to collect all possible scrap metal in the shortest possible time.

Here is an opportunity for everyone to make a personal contribution to the war effort. Because modern warfare is fought almost entirely with steel, the nations that win in the end will be those with the greatest production of steel. Scrap metal is vitally essential to the manufacture of steel. The chief ingredients of new steel are pig iron and scrap—old metal and iron. Steel can be made from pig iron alone, but the addition of scrap makes stronger, quicker and cheaper steel.

In times of national emergency like these the use of scrap has other advantages which are vastly important. It eliminates the necessity of producing and transporting millions of tons of iron ore, limestone and coke for the blast furnaces which supply pig iron.

During peacetimes the steel mills of the country, operating far below capacity, depended about half on pig iron and half on scrap. There was plenty of scrap. Since the war we have found that we did not have enough pig iron furnaces to keep the steel mills going. We can spare neither the time nor the materials now to build them. So the mills will have to depend on scrap collected from refuse piles and the attics of the country.

Government experts estimate that there are some 17,000,000 tons of scrap required immediately—within the next few months—to keep the steel mills going. Some of the mills will have to close down if this quantity of metal is not forthcoming. It is highly important to collect the scrap before the snow falls this winter; otherwise it will be hidden and not be made available for use until spring.

PLENTY LYING AROUND The same experts estimate that there is more than an adequate supply of scrap in the country. Approximately 100,000,000 tons of it are lying around the farms, the homes, the factories and attics of the country—metal that has long since been abandoned. It is composed of everything from old automobiles, rakes, plows, tractors, boilers, to razor blades.

Not only this type of scrap, but aluminum, copper, bronze, lead, tin and zinc. Our war industries desperately need all kinds of scrap metals.

So here is a job for everybody. The newspapers can only lead the way by pointing to what should be done, by assisting in the organization of groups to see that the scrap is unearthed from its hiding place and made available to the government.

OPPORTUNITY FOR CLUBS There is an opportunity for the women's organizations engaged in war work, for civic clubs, the Boy Scouts, the churches, fraternal organizations, and every other organized group. Every home, farm and factory will be a scrap-conscious group for the next few months. The stuff must be brought out if the war program is not to suffer.

Never mind about the collection of the scrap. The government will tell you what to do with it in time. Arrangements will be made later for its transportation to the mills. The thing to do now is to get it out and in one pile. The program offers room enough for everybody to take part. Everyone who has been wanting to know what he could do to help win the war is now given a task. Contribute either as a collector or an organizer. Much improvement is possible in past collection methods. Some of the kinks must be ironed out. But the scrap must be secured, however the means.

WE HAVE CAPACITY The United States has the greatest steel production of any nation in the world. We have a capacity for some 90,000,000 tons a year. Japan produces about 7,000,000 tons. Steel production is the factor that will ultimately win the war. It means more guns, more tanks, more ships and planes.

We have got the capacity for producing all the steel we need, but in order to keep the mills rolling we will have to get out the scrap. There isn't time to build new pig iron blast furnaces, and we can't spare the materials for them even if we had the time.

So the responsibility rests with every individual to find and assemble every bit of scrap possible. You will be surprised to discover how much of the stuff is lying around your house unwanted. One government official dug out several hundred pounds after an earlier canvass of his household failed to produce anything worth while.

The American people have an extravagant accumulation of metal junk lying around their farms and homes. It is vitally needed now for the war effort.

What Can I Do?

The Office of War Information has recently sent out copies of a booklet called "What Can I Do? The Citizen's Handbook for War."

The booklet is a small, handy volume, compiled by the Office of Civilian Defense and is just the sort of valuable reading matter that should be in every home of loyal Americans in time of war.

Looking over the copy on my own desk, it is reminded of the booklet, about the same size, published by the British government in the early days of the war and before.

As memory serves the British booklet was titled "National Service." It told exactly what war duties every Britisher could perform and how to go about getting into those duties. Everything from work with air raid precautions—synonymous with our Civilian Defense—to helping on the farms, enlisting in one or other of the armed services.

It was my impression that every soul in the British Isles had a copy of that booklet. At least I didn't find any acquaintance lacking a copy.

It was distributed free and could be secured by simply asking at post offices, banks, and such places. And there were banners and signs in the cities calling everyone into national service, and wooden hoardings in public places listing the numbers of air raid wardens, first aid workers, auxiliary police or firemen and others still needed in the immediate vicinity.

Not Quite The Same. Now the new U. S. booklet, "What Can I Do?" is not quite the British "National Service." For our booklet deals exclusively with civilians. It has nothing about volunteering for the armed services. After all, presumably everybody knows how to step up to a recruiting office and enlist, if patience won't permit waiting for call in selective service.

"What Can I Do?" is illustrated by Guyas Williams. The artist gave his work as a contribution to the war effort. A most effective contribution, by the way.

There are eight chapters, an appendix and a list of government publications recommended for further reading along the same line. Here are the chapter headings—so you'll realize how you really wish for one.

That should cover the subject quite completely.

Getting Down To Details.

But the compilers of this booklet were not satisfied with anything which might be considered a generalization. They subdivided their subjects, to bring them right home to the individual.

For instance, the chapter on "What Men and Women in Business Can Do" has special sub-headings dealing with specific businesses. Like this: Retail Merchants, Sales Clerks, Accountants, Stenographers, Clerks, Bankers, Brokers, Food Merchants, Grocers, Shipbuilders, Wholesale Dealers, Domestic Help, Beauty Parlor Operators, Barbers, Waiters, Bartenders, Motion Picture Theater Managers, Salesmen, Canvasers, Cleaners, Dyers, Guards, Watchmen, Doorkeepers, Ushers, Messengers, Builders.

If you can't find your best war job under one or other of those categories—if you are in business—there's something mighty unusual about your job.

One Item Puzzles.

There is one item, addressed to Musicians, which puzzles me, however. It advises all musicians they have a spare-time job in training amateur musicians, leading community bands and choruses and helping to organize entertainment in military camps. Further, it says band concerts and community singing should be weekly events in every town for the duration. And it adds, "If you belong to a union, see that it co-operates fully with the Defense Council."

I'd like to know how union musicians can do all these things so long as their union is headed by that guy Petrillo, with all his dictatorial orders and restrictions and so on.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

What NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—To get down to earth, just what is the International Students' Assembly at which President Roosevelt delivered his message to the youth of the world last week, how did it come into being, who organized it and is it something that all of us, suddenly, are required to respect unquestioningly?

The President spoke sharply of those who regard this war strictly as a fight for the life of the United States when he said, "there is still, however, a handful of men and women in the United States and elsewhere who mock and sneer at the four freedoms and the Atlantic Charter. They are few in number, but they have the financial power to give our enemies the false impression that they have a large following among our citizens. They play petty politics in a world crisis."

Now there has been no noticeable mocking and sneering at the four freedoms as such but there has been considerable dissent from the proposition that it is the duty and the mission of the American people to establish them "everywhere in the world" and that this is the purpose for which the United States went to war. Those who hold this view, a narrow view if you will, believe that this is a simple, primitive struggle to destroy an enemy who started it with a treacherous attack on American soil. They are not, as he said, few in number nor have they any organized financial power nor any desire to discredit their government in the eyes of foe or friend. And it is every citizen's right to engage in politics in this election year just as Mr. Roosevelt himself has been doing "in a world crisis."

Not Holy Writ For holding these patriotic belief and for engaging legitimately in politics on the purely domestic issues of the New Deal, many Americans, not just a few, are held up to contempt by the President in an address to a congress largely composed of young foreigners.

The doctrine of the four freedoms "everywhere in the world" is not a required belief nor is the so-called Atlantic Charter Holy Writ. They are propositions made by the President and Winston Churchill and that is all they are. Americans obligate themselves only to uphold the constitution of the republic and defend her against her foes.

Now, abruptly, comes the International Students' Assembly in Washington under the auspices of an organization called the "International Students' Service," described as a gathering of 350 youths of 53 countries. It may be all right but any American has a right to look into its background.

Everyone who reads Mrs. Roosevelt's column knows that she has been promoting the International Students' Service for a long time. Last year her friend and protégé, Joe Lash, formerly active in youth organizations of the Communist Front in this country, was very prominent among those who were putting themselves forward as candidates for student and youth leadership at an "institute" which she entertained at Campobello Island. Lash not only has a political background which would impair his pretensions to the leadership of American youth, but he is, moreover, no youth. He is a man rising 30 years who has been active in the youth leadership game as a vocation for more than a decade. Another prominent participant in the "institute" was Justice Felix Frankfurter, whose teachings are not necessarily binding on good Americans, and may be rejected without prejudice.

Group Background

The International Students' Service was one of the organizations devoted to the assistance of students who were victims of persecution in their European homelands, principally Germany, Italy and Spain. It now seems to be developing into a world political union of youth under Mrs. Roosevelt's patronage and will continue to oppose Nazi-Fascism, but is lavishly cordial to Communist youth.

Everyone knows that Communism and Nazi-Fascism are alike in their attitude on the four freedoms and that religion is not free in Russia. Then how can the youth of the anti-Axis nations get together on a post-war program or anything else?

Naturally, the President and the American people would be polite to the Russian delegates. Communists though they are, because they are certified as military heroes of a great and brave ally in the war against Hitler and Japan. But the youth of Christianity can find no common ground with Communist youth, and the most obvious field in which to start establishing the four freedoms after the war would be Russia.

It was really a lofty speech that President Roosevelt made, but there was something on the order of a rush-act in this sudden ballet for one of Mrs. Roosevelt's pet projects and the suggestion that those who do not wholly endorse the plan to establish the "institute" "everywhere in the world" in collaboration with the mighty Communist state are not as good Americans as they might be. Up to now Americans have always believed that their own country was the only one to which they owed an obligation.

know what the final returns will prove. But it has been my observation since early boyhood when I carried a torch in political parades and burned holes in my best suit, that on the morning after election day the sun rose in the east on schedule time by Hostetter's justly famous almanac. It may have looked a little cockeyed to some of us but it kept right on the job, dealing sunshine to all. Unless it rained. But doesn't the proverb say the rain falls upon the just and the unjust?

Now that virtue has—or has not—triumphed, permit me to state that you who have read only the Atlanta dailies during this campaign and have perhaps thought they were hitting a little too hard don't know nothin'.

You should have had the delight of perusing some of the country weeklies in districts where the races for congress were really hot. The editors didn't have much to say but the advertisements signed—and presumably paid for—by rival candidates certainly did bear down on the opposition.

I cannot recall that any incumbent or aspirant actually had a criminal record to expose but there were few who did not have a skeleton in the closet. And did the opposition drag it out and rattle the bones?

The natural conclusion is that most of the candidates were scoundrels unfit for association with decent folk. That is, up through election day. They're all pretty nice fellows now.

Family Vs. Juleps

Friend of mine, whose identity shall not be revealed unless a grand jury gets me cornered, yesterday had an incident in which he got to bragging a little too much.

He said he had never been especially interested in genealogy but his old maid aunt was and she had climbed from limb to limb on the family tree until she discovered she—and she—had ancestors named Raleigh.

"I was at a country club in Kentucky," he confided to me, "quaffing mint juleps and trying to listen to old gentlemen and elderly ladies discussing their ancestry."

"After a time the succession of juleps took hold and I decided to take a hand. Waving all their claims aside I declared my expert genealogist had demonstrated beyond peradventure of a doubt that I was a lineal descendant of Sir Walter Raleigh."

"It didn't seem to go over so well. An ancient dame who couldn't have squeezed into a bathtub without a shoehorn sniffed and moved away. When I offered to buy a round of juleps nobody was interested. Soon I was left alone."

"What seems to be the trouble here?" I inquired of my host, who had stuck by, being loyal to a guest.

"I think you extended your genealogy a trifle too far," he explained. "If you know your history, Sir Walter Raleigh lived and died a bachelor."

About Dogs

Reader in East Point is bothered about the correct spelling of the breed name of a small dog, popularly known as a "fice." He says it isn't in his dictionary.

The office Webster's International makes it "feist," a small dog. Which helps about spelling but not much about anything else.

A Pomeranian is a small dog. So is a Pekinese. So is the toy Dachshund. So is the tiny Manchester.

But I'd like to stand off in a safe spot and hear you call any one of them a "feist" in hearing of the owner.

As a small boy I had many friends among the neighbor's feists. They seemed to be indigent to our region. Looking back, I think they were part black and tan terrier and part almost anything. And valiant ratters and fighters.

Speaking of dogs (I really should be made a dog editor, with a raise in salary) Mrs. Ruth Rhoads, whose address is indistinct, writes me her dog Sunny chews a plug of Brown Mule tobacco each and every week. I trust this is

ALBANY READER LIKED ANNIVERSARY EDITION

Editor, Constitution: May I congratulate you and the other members of The Constitution's staff on the marvelous 75th edition which you published on Tuesday last week. It was superb, no footin'. Those things about agriculture, and southwest Georgia and Albany were fine. Excellent was the article about religion in Georgia. In fact, all of it was as good as could be. The whole issue was superb, including all that about cotton.

My correspondent says furthermore that Sunny is half chow and half dog and remains all night on guard at her shop. But what gets me is that she says she adds 5 cents a week to her budget for Sunny's tobacco. Where can you buy a whole plug of Brown Mule for 5 cents? Tell me, and I may take up chawin' instead of cigars.

Enforced economy is a great thing for the people. Gas rationing and tire rationing have saved me, I figure, $37.65 and gosh, don't I wish I had it!

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

POLITICIANS—STATESMEN.

The greatest single need in this country today, apart, of course, from a closer walk with God, is political leadership.

Political leadership—statesmanship—rather than politicians. We certainly are prepared here in Georgia to appreciate such need, and equally is the need felt in our national life.

It is unfortunate, indeed, that politics—the science of government—should have fallen to a level where the word politician means something distinctly less than statesmanship, and that men in public office are so often characterized as politicians, as a commonly accepted term of derision; but it is, nevertheless, true. If you will take the time to study the history of the word politician, you will find that this estimate of men in public office has existed a long time.

This fact, no doubt, accounts for the absence of our ablest men from the roles of political life, a fact which may well give us pause. It would be a wholesome exercise for the people of this nation to devote some of the evenings of the approaching autumn and winter to the reading of history—American history, first, and then English history. Such reading would be revealing and rewarding. Take, for example, George Washington.

Why did he devote much of his life to politics? Why can't we induce more men of like character and ability to offer for public office today?

The New York Times made a recent survey of American colleges to discover that only 18 per cent of the liberal arts colleges, professional schools and teachers' colleges required the study of any history of the United States, and that 72 per cent of these institutions do not require any credits in United States history for admission. Only 8 per cent of the college students in this country made any pretense of study of American history last year. Is there any connection between the fact that our people know practically nothing of the history of our country and the fact that very largely we have fallen into the hands of politicians rather than statesmen?

Just because we are to be relieved for a few months of political campaigning in Georgia should not lull us to sleep in this vitally important matter of our responsibility of citizenship. The frightening plights of affairs in Washington, described by daily observers as a madhouse of political whipsawing, is, surely, sufficient serious and precarious to stab us all live awake.

"God, give us men! A time like this demands strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands; men whom the lust of office does not kill; men whom the spoils of office cannot buy; men who possess opinions and a will—tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog in public duty and in private thinking. For while the rabble mangle in selfish strife, let Freedom weep, wrong rules the land and waiting Justice sleeps."

Confronted with too many little men in places of large responsibility, let us prayerfully seek to strengthen them to face their tasks in honor and quit themselves like men.

WAVES Must Weigh at Least 95 Pounds

Requirements for Women Listed; Must Be Between 20-36.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The Navy announced requirements for enlisted personnel of the Women's Reserve of the U. S. Naval Reserve today and said the first group of 1,600 enlisted "WAVES" will be trained at three midwestern colleges.

The announcement said 500 women would take a four-month course in radio communication at the University of Wisconsin. At Indiana University and Oklahoma Agricultural & Mechanical College, 600 and 500 women, respectively, will be trained as yeomen.

Women who wish to apply for enlistment should write to the nearest office of naval officer procurement after September 11, stating their age, education, marital status and, if married, the occupation of their husband and the ages of their children.

The candidates, who will receive the same pay as enlisted men of the Navy, starting at $50 a month for apprentice seamen, plus their keep, must be over 20 and under 36 years of age, have no children under 18, meet physical qualifications of good health, and be high school graduates or business school graduates with enough experience to be equivalent to a high school education. The minimum height standard is 5 feet and minimum weight is 95 pounds.

Number of Women. No limit was placed on the number of women who could volunteer for the Women's Naval Reserve, and Lieutenant Commander McAfee said the presumption is that the demand for women to replace men in noncombat shore jobs will go much past the original estimate.

At present under the bill creating the Women's Naval Reserve, the WAVES cannot serve outside the continental United States, but this does not apply to the WAACS, and Mrs. Hobby said it is contemplated that four company headquarters of WAACS will go to England this year. She said almost 90 per cent of the WAACS express preference for overseas duty.

Twenty-nine company headquarters units, or administrative companies, averaging about 150 to each company, will be stationed at service commands in 20 states this year, she said. They will go to large Army posts to perform duties as clerks, typists, stenographers, librarians, dietitians and telephoneists.

Creation of WAACS. Mrs. Hobby and Miss McAfee saw in the creation of the WAACS and the WAVES a forward step for women. Miss McAfee said that if women prove themselves worthy in a few years they will be given more responsible positions in the Navy.

Mrs. Hobby had said that "no social or educational barriers stand in the way of a woman's serving her country in the WAACS." In her turn Miss McAfee said that college qualifications for officer candidates in the WAVES does not mean that the Navy is undemocratic.

Anyway, she said, don't blame it on the women, Mrs. Hobby. It is an old Navy tradition.

A VICTORY Call— is the call you don't make!

This war is being fought with a lot of little things.

- The new tires you don't have for your car.
- The cuffs you don't have on your new trousers.
- The telephone calls you don't make.

These are a few of the many things we are doing to fight the war. Little things, yes. But altogether the little things add up to guns, planes, tanks and ships to lick the Axis.

Telephone calls you don't make help keep lines clear to handle the urgent messages of war. We can't add to present facilities to ease congestion on telephone lines because materials used in telephone manufacture are now going into war production.

But we can make fewer telephone calls.

If you'll make only really essential long distance calls and make fewer local calls every day you'll be doing your part to help win the war.

A victory call... is the telephone call you don't make.

Here's How You Can Help...

Long Distance Calls

- 1 Make only the most necessary long distance calls.
- 2 Place your calls before 9 a.m.; between noon and 2 p.m.; 5 and 7 p.m.; or after 9 p.m.
- 3 Stay near your telephone after you have placed your call.
- 4 Plan what you want to say to make your conversation as brief as possible.
- 5 Whenever possible, call by number.

Local Calls

- 1 Use your telephone sparingly—avoid unnecessary calls.
- 2 Be sure to replace your receiver on hook.
- 3 Look up numbers you are not sure of and help avoid the calling of wrong numbers.
- 4 Make your conversations brief.
- 5 Caution your servants against needless use of the telephone.

For more information on this subject listen to the "Telephone Hour" radio program over N.B.C. network every Monday at 9 p.m. E.W.T. (8 p.m. C.W.T.)

'Bugs' Baer Says:

I have been looking over Randy Paul's tax plan and it proves the claim that Washington is a nut factory run by the inmates.

The jigger is as complicated as a home-made watch. So far as I can figure it out it penalizes the spender, subsidizes the miser and, like an idiot on a mouth organ, it plays both ends against the middle.

Here is some advice to Randy Paul of the Treasury: We are trying to go bingo—not blotto.

Paul's spending tax plan figures to reduce our standard of living by half. What Paul doesn't know is that you cannot get more water by making the pumphantle longer.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

By Edythe Thomas Wallace.

Ann: "Do you want some milk from my little teapot, daddy? And mamma says I may fill our glasses up again after we all drink these." Pleasant associations help overcome food dislikes while unpleasant ones may only intensify them.

Strictly Business

"Honey, you are now looking—not at the sixteenth vice president of the City Bank & Trust Co.—but at the fifteenth vice president!"

Rites for Cadet Set for Friday

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 9.—Final rites for Heyward Harris Jr., 22, aviation cadet from Waycross who was killed in a crash near the Greenville Army Flying school at Greenville, Miss., Monday night, will be held Friday morning at the chapel of the S. A. Kyle Funeral Home, in Jacksonville, Florida.

Military honors will be accorded the youthful Waycross flyer, who was to have completed his training at the Greenville Field within a week.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Heyward Harris Sr., of Waycross. His father is a veteran of World War I, and is steward at the Wale hotel. He also is survived by a brother, Garner Harris, and a sister, Miss Betty Harris.

Graduating from Waycross High school in 1938, he attended Young Harris College. He enlisted as an aviation cadet early this year.

The man who can lay a roof without "laying down" on the job is advertising in the Business Service column in the Want Ad pages of The Constitution.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 9.—Miss Louise Wier has been named instructor in the department of landscape architecture at the university. Hubert B. Owens, head of the department, announces. Miss Wier is a graduate of Mississippi State College for Women.

She did graduate work at Alabama Polytechnic Institute and has spent the last two and a half years studying at Lowthorpe school in Groton, Mass., a leading landscape architecture school for women in the nation. Hadassah Here Aids Hospital In Palestine*Special Courses in Diseases Available to Doctors of United Nations

Special courses in diseases prevalent in Palestine have been made available to physicians of the United Nations through the work of Atlanta members of Hadassah and members in 388 other American cities. Miss Juliet Benjamin, national secretary of the organization, said here yesterday.

Miss Benjamin said Jewish women in Palestine, members of Hadassah, keep the American members informed as to what is needed at the big hospital there and the governments of the United Nations make it possible for supplies of food and medicine to get through.

Just last week we had a cable that diphtheria toxoid was needed," Miss Benjamin said. "It is nearly there now on a bomber." The hospital, which Hadassah maintains in the Holy Land, has had its bed capacity doubled since the war and has been turned over to the Armies of the United Nations. Miss Benjamin came to Atlanta to tell members of the local chapter what the organization is accomplishing and to make plans for the coming national convention. She left last night to return to New York.

F.D.R. To Borrow Daniels From OCD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The White House asserted today that President Roosevelt intended to ask Director James M. Landis, of the Office of Civilian Defense, for the loan of Jonathan Daniels for some assignment which the chief executive has in mind.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said the assignment would be temporary and that Daniels, on leave from his job as editor of the Raleigh (N. C.) News and Observer, would not resign from OCD. Early said he could not disclose the nature of the job Mr. Roosevelt wanted Daniels to do. Josephus Daniels, former ambassador to Mexico, edits the Raleigh paper in the absence of his son.

Drive To Enroll Nurses' Aides Set

A campaign to enroll volunteer nurse's aides will be launched here Friday at a regional conference of state nurses' deputies, Office of Civilian Defense, Dr. Burt A. Dyer, emergency medical service director for the Fourth Civilian Defense Region, announced yesterday.

Sparta F.F.A. Cannery To Slow Down Schedule
Sparta, Ga., Sept. 9.—After the most successful canning season since it was established, the local FFA cannery will drop their schedule to only two days each week with the coming week. They will operate the cannery and dehydrator only on Tuesday and Friday. This schedule will be observed as long as fruits or vegetables are available to can or dry and then the cannery will have special days, by appointment, for canning fresh meats.

Many farmers are planning to conserve meat in this manner during the winter and thus save much good meat which is wasted or given away at "hog killing" time. This practice was started on a small scale last year and will be greatly enlarged this winter because of the increasing cost of meats of all kinds.
